JAPAN SENDS BRITISH WARNING

SKINNY KRIBBLES

Around And About Town

Oh, night o' nights, and far into the night. You've heard of the night before Christmas. Well, this is the night before Halloween, that Druidic event which sends a lot of knights out without armor. That is why they are police vulnerable, and sometimes are caught. More often they escape.

Next morning when you wake up you are convinced that there isn't anything supernatural about the affair. You see plenty of evidence that the goblins were not only alive, but active. I remember leaving destructive testimony of my idea of Halloween, which wasn't appreciated by the property owner. And yet we think the boys of today are going to the devil. Maybe they are. Adults thought the same about "us" kids, and we're still here. Maybe the devil doesn't want us.

An old-timer overheard a group of kids at Fourth and Sycamore streets planning their nocturnal activities for tomorrow night. With a wan smile, Old-timer recalled the Halloween of 40 to 50 years ago. One of them I recall as a spirited youth who made life miserable for the chief of police, who on an occasion threw a club at the offending youth which failed to hit the rapidly moving boy, but the umpire called it a strike when it went through a display window. The escaping lad has enjoyed that incident ever since. The chief had to pay for the glass.

If my friend, Al Irish, was here, and not in Portland, I would ask him about the halloween. He used to promote Halloween night, and I'll bet his friends who were reared in North Dakota and Iowa, and now operate the Hotel Benson, could offer their alluring contributions to the Halloween of long ago.

Getting back to Old Timer. A bunch of the Santa Ana boys, including Fred Parsons, Charley Kelley, Neal Brock, Vic Walker, Ben Clapp, Charley Ott, Ernest Madden, Budge Lacy, and some two score other local celebrities, got no end of amusement and excitement in ringing the old fire alarm bell at Fifth and Sycamore, taking the axle-nuts off buggies and wagons, exchanging merchants signs, rolling beer kegs out into the streets and, in general, vexing and annoying the town's adult population.

Some of the pranks played in those good old days are beyond repetition. Some of the architectural appurtenances have been obsoleted by modern construction, and the immortal literature of Chic Sale's cannot take the place of the scenic retreat secluded among the shrubbery. It is difficult to even delicately refer to the subject, and it would have probably been entirely forgotten had it not been revived by the WPA.

I do not know who started this Halloween business, but it has supplied a lot of pleasure and some trouble. The kids get the joy and the adults the grief. I know that during my mischievous days I left my share of vexations to friends and neighbors, and some of the neighbors were not my friends "the morning after."

If the kiddies do not have a good time Halloween, it won't be the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

RACE BOOKIES SEEKING TO INVADE S. A.

Agent Tries to Rent Quarters Here

Race horse bookies invaded Santa Ana today, and attempted to establish quarters for widespread gambling operations.

A mysterious man who refused to give his name contacted officials of the Orange County Central Labor council today and sought to rent the Labor temple quarters on West Fourth street for headquarters.

The union officials immediately contacted Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard and questioned him as to the legality of the proposal.

Chief Howard said today that there are no bookie establishments in the city now, and that there will be no illegal gambling headquarters here for betting on the horse races. He warned that if anybody opens up such an establishment, the police will move in and close up the place.

Howard said that unless Attorney General Webb rules that such "legal betting" establishments are really legal, the police here will not tolerate the operations of race bookies.

TO USE TELETYPE

Union officials said the man who contacted them in regard to renting quarters wanted to install a teletype machine, presumably for the purpose of getting race results.

Rumors had been current here this week that the "legal betting" had sprung up in Los Angeles would come to Santa Ana or Orange county, but today's activities were the first definitely reported to police.

It was reported that a local real estate man also is looking for a suitable location for the gambling headquarters.

COUPLE HURT IN HEADON CRASH

A spectacular head-on collision on U. S. highway No. 101 in the heart of Anaheim late last night injured a young Fullerton girl and her youthful companion.

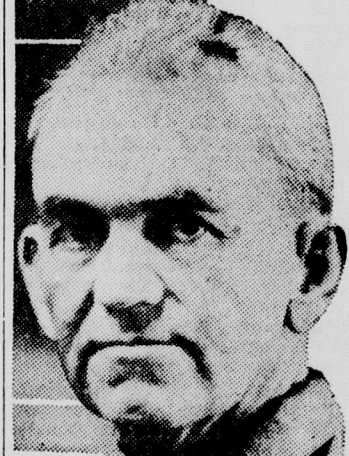

Arthur Saviers, 20, of De Luxe hotel, Fullerton, driver of one of the cars, sustained cuts and bruises about the face and body, and Mildred Jones, riding with him, had several teeth knocked out, according to police.

Saviers' car and one driven by D. W. Campbell, 1230 South Ross street, Santa Ana, were involved in the collision. Campbell escaped injury.

Accuse Men of Destroying Trees

SAN DIEGO. (AP)—Three San Diego business men, S. D. Archer, Russell J. Warner and Kermit F. Bennett, accused of destroying six eucalyptus trees on a public boulevard, were named in malicious mischief complaints issued by City Prosecutor Morey Levenson.

Plea Denied

Tom Mooney, convicted of Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, was denied freedom today by the state supreme court, which refused his plea for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

COURT DENIES PERJURY WRIT

The decision was five to one, with Justice William H. Langdon dissenting.

In announcing the opinion, Chief Justice William H. Waste stated the court "has concluded that Mooney failed to establish by substantial credible evidence that his conviction was the result of perjury on the part of prosecuting witnesses."

Mooney, convicted with Warren K. Billings of murder for the 1916 Preparedness day parade bombing here, is serving his 21st year of a life sentence in San Quentin prison.

The chief justice said Mooney also failed to show "that the prosecuting officers caused or suffered to be introduced at his trial any testimony which they knew or had any reason to believe was false, or that they were guilty of suppressing or preventing the introduction of any evidence which, had it been given, would have been favorable to the defense at his trial."

Free Workman Buried in Sand

CHELMSFORD, Mass. (AP)—Rescuers early today freed Manuel Camacho, 19, of Lowell, from a sandbank in which he had been buried up to his neck for 12 hours.

Almost unconscious at the end, he was taken to a hospital for treatment of crushed legs.

More than 100 policemen, firemen and volunteers worked through the night under floodlights to free the lad.

For most of the 12 hours he remained conscious, guiding his rescuers and asking only for cigarettes. Frequent drinks of whiskey stimulated his resistance. Late last night the Rev. Walter A. Quinlan administered last rites of the Catholic church.

GROWERS GET REPORT BY ARMSTRONG

Orange Meet Hears Of Juice Problem

Jack Frost's ruthless invasion of Orange county and Southern California last winter failed to give local valencias a black eye in eastern markets, and the marketing season just ended will return California Fruit Growers exchange growers nearly $3,500,000 more than last year.

These important points were emphasized by officials of the exchange when they spoke at a meeting of about 500 Orange county growers last night in Orange. The meeting was an annual post-season event, sponsored by the Orange county Fruit exchange and presided over by President Willard Smith of the district exchange.

T. H. Powell, general sales manager of the state exchange, told the growers the exchange f. o. b. return on Southern California valencias was ahead of any year since 1930 and that he figured the return for fruit on the tree would be from $3,000,000 to $3,500,000 more than last year, or 15 per cent more money for 24 per cent less fruit.

BROTHER WEDS OWN SISTER

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A month-old secret marriage between brother and sister, in which neither of the principals was aware of the blood relationship, until three days ago, stood annulled today by the Wright county court at Hartsville, Mo.

Ben Ippock, 23, and his sister, Mary Lee, 21, on whose foster father's farm he was employed, were married Sept. 27.

They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ippock, both of whom died in 1918 leaving the children homeless.

They were placed in the children's home at Jefferson City. The girl was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Williams, who live on a farm in Johnson county. The boy was reared by Mr. and Mrs. Sod Yocum, of near Mountain Grove, Mo.

Ippock secured a job on the Williams farm last summer.

Mrs. Williams suspected the relationship when she learned the youth, who usually went by the name of Yocum, was really named Ippock.

CIO OPENS LABOR ATTACK

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Organized labor's civil warfare broke out openly today over a CIO proposal to enroll all furniture workers into one big union.

Without waiting for resumption of stalemated peace negotiations with the American Federation of Labor, John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, invited A. F. of L. craftsmen in the furniture, bedding and allied trades to meet CIO furniture workers in a national unity conference here Nov. 27-29.

William Green, A. F. of L. president, termed Lewis' maneuver a "warlike gesture," and added: "It is bound to have a disturbing effect upon pending peace negotiations. It seems to us indicative of the CIO position."

LEWIS SAID THE CONFERENCE "will lay the basis for unity of all furniture workers in a single, powerful international industrial union affiliated with the CIO."

The CIO estimated 250,000 workers were employed in the furniture trades, 60,000 of them organized in unions.

Lewis' aides said they did not regard the proposal as having any relation to the peace negotiations which recessed Wednesday until Nov. 4.

NO ARMISTICE

They disclosed that CIO has observed no formal armistice since both factions exchanged peace conference proposals during the week of Oct. 11. The Lewis wing of the labor movement, they said, has chartered 53 local industrial CIO unions since Oct. 11 and has organized a machine at full speed.

The move to establish an industrial union for furniture workers was part of the organization strategy agreed on at the CIO conference in Atlantic City in mid-October.

The leaders of 32 CIO international unions adopted a resolution directing Lewis to call the furniture workers meeting within 30 days.

Leaders on both sides indicated that their negotiating committees would still go through with the scheduled resumption of the peace talks next Thursday.

FIGHT CATTLE IMPORTATION

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—W. Hugh Baber, head of the California Cattlemen's Association, who is organizing opposition to a proposed treaty with Argentina which would permit importation of beef from that country, was to hold a meeting of cattlemen in Brawley today.

Baber told a meeting here yesterday American cattlemen must be protected from danger of hoof and mouth disease infection from Argentine cattle. He also voiced opposition to a proposed federal processing tax on domestic cattle.

Hot Words Fly In Farm Labor Talk

A 10-minute furor over labor questions among avocado growers was quieted yesterday afternoon in La Habra by the chairman's gavel, after growers had shouted defiance at organizers.

W. G. Steele, chairman of the Los Angeles county avocado department, calmed the meeting down after an impromptu discussion of the labor question by Sam Spencer of the state chamber of commerce had aroused several growers to the shouting point.

"All people like Harry Bridges should be hauled through the streets behind a truck," bellowed one rancher. Several others said they felt differently but Steele's gavel brought the meeting back to order.

Growers had gathered to hear about the progressive program for avocado culture at the eighth annual meeting of growers from Orange, Los Angeles and San Diego counties, representing more than 14,000 acres of the tropical fruit.

"The citrus industry," said another speaker, "has got where it is by a closed shop, hiring labor through associations. We've got to do that if we're going to solve the problem."

More than 200 ranchers attended the session. Steele, besides presiding at the afternoon session, introduced Floyd D. Young, government meteorologist, who explained forecasts of freezing temperatures.

Radio reports of temperatures and forecasts will begin at 8 (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

SIX KILLED AS CARS CRASH

VINTON, Iowa. (AP)—Six persons were dead and two injured in an automobile accident here yesterday.

Members of four generations of the family were killed when two cars collided on a hill near here. One carried five Grundy, Iowa, women and two children, and the other two Vinton farmers.

The dead were John Roach, 70, Vinton; Mrs. O. M. Newton, 82; Mrs. Harry E. Newton, 53; Mrs. Raymond Brown, 28, an expectant mother, and her 2-year-old daughter, Marcia Lee Brown, and Mrs. Edward Shaw, 21.

None of the survivors immediately was able to explain how the accident occurred. They were Davey Roach, 50, brother of John; Mrs. Art Robbins, 42, and her son, Douglas, 3.

CHARGES AID BEING GIVEN TO CHINESE

'Lost Battalion' Gains Freedom

TOKYO. (AP)—An unofficial group of highly placed Japanese today charged that Britain was helping China in her war against Japan and warned that Anglo-Japanese relations might be broken if this continued.

"The council on the current situation," with more than 100 prominent men attending, unanimously and amid cheering adopted this resolution:

"If the British fail to reconsider their attitude, they may be forced to take an attitude of grave determination by severing years of friendly diplomatic relations."

Those present included Teijiro Yamamoto, former cabinet minister and a leader of the Seiyukai party; Lieut. Gen. Yoshitugu Takawa, prominent in nationalist movements, and Shingo Tsuda, one of Japan's outstanding industrialists.

The resolution accused Britain of being "the main driving force in the convocation of the nine-power conference, apparently to start intervention."

'Lost Battalion' Flees to Safety

SHANGHAI (Sunday) (AP) China's "lost battalion" early today successfully ran the gauntlet of heavy Japanese fire to withdraw into the safety of the international concession behind American and British defense lines.

The reported decision of the battalion to abandon its stand against the surrounding Japanese was said to be the result of the urging of foreign consuls-general, who sought to end a situation considered dangerous to the international settlement areas.

It was feared the settlement would be gravely endangered if the battalion continued to defy its enemies.

The battalion, unit of the famous 8th division, had held out in a warehouse-fortress near the settlement boundary since the general (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

ACCUSE CIO IN DETROIT VOTE

DETROIT. (AP)—The attempt of the Committee for Industrial Organization to score a major political coup in this automobile center has turned an ordinarily staid contest for the mayoralty into one of the bitterest campaigns in Detroit's history.

Conservatives and CIO-opposed groups combined to fight what they termed a "plot to seize the reins of city government."

Nearly half a million Detroiters are expected to give the final verdict with their votes Tuesday. They will choose a $15,000-a-year mayor, a nine-member city council, a city clerk and a treasurer.

Clerk of Justice Court to Marry

Charley Tulene, Santa Ana justice court clerk, may have gotten the idea from his deputy, Ralph Gordon.

Gordon was married last month; and today Tulene started out to join the ranks. He filed notice of intention to wed Miss Garnet LaVerne Harley, 22, 1122 West First street. Tulene, who lives at 1316 King street, gave his age as 32.

SHOOT DOWN BOMBER

AMOY, China. (AP)—A Japanese bomber was shot down and three fliers killed today when a Japanese squadron attempted to destroy road communications linking this South China port with Changchow and Chinchow.

Spankless Life For Dionne Quints

TORONTO. (AP)—The most complete picture of the Dionne quintuplets presented since their birth three years and five months ago—frail bits of humanity weighing about two pounds—emerged today from a scientists' conference hearing reports of their progress.

The picture was rosy—the world's prize babies are now in bouncing health—but here are some of the details the world may have wondered about:

They are a little retarded in language development—which is natural even for twins, and is still more natural for quintuplets. They have overcome the physical handicaps of their premature birth and are normal. Their average weight is slightly above the average weight for children of their age, their chest measurements are above normal.

They are never spanked. The sole form of punishment used at their Callander nursery is temporary isolation for the quint who has misbehaved. They are remarkably similar outwardly. For example, their hair is all brown, their complexions are alike, their ears have only small differences, even the shape of their finger patterns is quite similar, and the prints ridge corners of their "finger prints" differ very little.

But they have decided personal differences—although they're an "identical set" of quintuplets—all five developed from one ovum.

Yvonne ranked highest in score after three achievement tests, with Cecile and Annette alternating next, then Emilie and last, little Marie, who was smaller at birth. The development of all is accelerating—more rapidly than is usual for the normal child.

TAXES UP 50 PCT. HERE IN 3 YEARS; SCHOOL COSTS BLAMED

COUNTY LEVY OVER STATE AVERAGE

School Costs Rise Nearly 150 Per Cent

That house and lot of yours will be more than 50 per cent costlier from a tax standpoint this year than during the depth of the depression.

Most of the increase will be caused by school taxes, which themselves are up nearly 150 per cent over the 1933-34 level.

Orange county, with an increase of more than 50 per cent, is above the state average which shows an increase of less than 45 per cent.

Taxes levied on common property for school, county and special district purposes—not including city taxes—have increased more than half since the low point in 1934-35, according to a survey being made by the California Taxpayers association.

Orange county property will pay $1,666,866 more this year than during 1934-35, or a total of $5,274,960 exclusive of cities—also higher than during 1932-33, or any year since then.

Last year's taxes raised $4,219,079. Taxes jumped $1,055,881 this year.

SCHOOL LEVIES
The 1934-35 "low year" raised $3,608,094. General county levies for current purposes this year were only $419,820 above the 1934-35 low, going to $1,508,659 in 1937-38.

School levies for current purposes, however, increased $1,078,359 from their 1933-34 low, climbing to $2,485,315 this year.

In addition to county and school levies for current needs, there is levied this year $47,419 for county bonds, $351,540 for school bonds and $786,027 for special districts.

MOONEY LOSES FREEDOM PLEA

torney, declared the case would be carried promptly to the United States supreme court.

Mooney has steadfastly asserted his innocence, contending he was convicted by perjured testimony.

Today's decision was the long-awaited outcome of an application for release on habeas corpus filed two and a half years ago with the California court.

Hearings occupied a year, and deliberations six months.

Previously the United States supreme court had denied Mooney a writ, saying he had not exhausted all avenues to freedom through the California courts.

The court said it disregarded the recommendation of Special Referee A. E. Shaw, appointed to preside at the hearings, and "re-viewed the extensive record for the purpose of making its own findings and drawing its own conclusions."

The opinion was 90 pages long. "We do not hesitate to state that an examination of the record disclosed that the testimony of many of the witnesses failed to place petitioner (Mooney) on the roof of the Eller's building at the time disclosed by the clock," the court said.

A photograph taken by an amateur showed Mooney and his wife, Rena, atop the building at a minute or so before the explosion at 2:06 p. m. on July 22, 1916.

"Moreover," the statement made by many of these same persons to police shortly after the explosion," the opinion continued, "disclosed in most instances that petitioner and his wife did not arrive on the Eller's building roof until after 2:30 p. m. the day of the explosion."

"The majority opinion is more or less what I expected," Attorney Davis said. "It is unjust, unfair and illogical."

The attorney announced he would visit Mooney immediately in prison and also would go to Folsom to see Billings.

Marx Brothers To Face Jury

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A federal jury, in special session today, will be given the case of comics Groucho and Chico Marx, charged with copyright infringement growing out of a radio broadcast last September.

Carroll and Garrett Graham, as government witnesses, said that they submitted a suit to the Marx Brothers and that it was rejected, but that the brothers broadcast substantially the same script nationally on Sept. 1, 1936.

As witnesses in a rather dull court session contrasting with their cinema antics, the Marx brothers both had lapses of memory concerning the matter at hand. It was brought out that the late Al Boasberg, film writer, prepared the "copy" used in the broadcast.

Spain's Capital Now in Barcelona

MADRID. (AP)—Barcelona, Spain's largest city, today also became capital of the Spanish government.

Premier Juan Negrin, head of the government, left sub-tropical Valencia by air to take up his headquarters in the northern city, already capital of autonomous Catalonia.

'Electric Eye' Nabs Thieves

BEVERLY HILLS. (AP)—By means of the newly installed "electric eye," Beverly Hills police today caught two negro robbers in the act of stealing stock in a boy's shop at 270 North Beverly drive.

Police said the men they arrested gave their names as G. Olson, 30, and Leroy Pink, 26. Officers said the men were stealing clothing. Signals flashed in the police station as enabled officers to reach the store in a few minutes. Similar signals have been installed, they said, in many of the movie stars' homes by Chief of Police Charles Blair.

G-MEN NAB MEMBER OF BIRD GANG

CLEVELAND. (AP)—Federal agents snatched Frank Bird, convicted slayer and bank robber, from their list of "wanted men" today and turned to the search for his younger brother, Charles, only member of the Bird brothers' gang who escaped from the Cuyahoga county jail a month ago still at large.

Frank Bird and his wife, Sylvia, also a fugitive, were trapped in a bulletless capture late last night as they drove up to the home of Mrs. Bird's mother.

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said his deputies were in the house as Bird's wife walked in and that a member of the family was instructed to go out and tell Frank that the coast was clear.

Frank then came in and was captured, O'Donnell said. He offered no resistance.

Bird and his brother, accompanied by James Widmer, escaped from the jail Sept. 23, in a daring armed break and a wild automobile chase through the city streets, leaving in their wake a fatally injured woman who their speeding car struck down.

On Oct. 15, Widmer was captured in Philadelphia in a stolen car.

The Bird brothers and Widmer were arrested here in July, during an attempted robbery of a bank and were being held for trial in a series of Cleveland bank robberies at the time of their escape.

fault of the local merchants, who have all kinds of knickknacks suitable to the occasion. In my day preparation for the event was confined almost entirely to masks, an apple-bobbing contest, lanterns and fireworks games. Simple but wholesome entertainment for the most part, but you couldn't foretell what sort of incursions were in the back of the heads of those fellows fooling around with an apple. By the way, why is it that an apple so often gets us into trouble? Do you suppose it's hereditary?

Hallowe'en is like going through a lodge. You don't get even until the next candidate appears.

I could listen all evening to the escapades of boys now grown old who extracted the elixir of life out of Hallowe'en pranks. And I could secretly grin when some grouchy old fellow couldn't see the point of joy, was imposing maledictions upon the offenders, and sometimes I was "it." Don't tell me they weren't the good old days.

So when the kiddies call to ring the door bell or put a tick-tack on the window or throw some beans at the pane, don't rush out and scare the life out of 'em. Enter into the play, whether you like it or not. Chances are you will like it if you take the right attitude. We got enough old dyspeptics in politics. Let's keep 'em out of domestic life. And if you are one of those fellows who never got any joy out of life, it's time you were, for one of these days they'll be calling for you, and maybe you will have missed your chance.

I'm thankful for the fellow who invented Hallowe'en. If he hadn't, I wouldn't have a lot of things to remember—and with pleasure.

SHERIFF DENIES BRUTALITY

BANNING. (AP)—Sheriff Carl F. Rayburn, of Riverside county, told the state assembly interim committee on labor and capital today that he knew of no case of brutality committed by any of his deputies during the strike on the Metropolitan Water District construction work here.

The committee transferred hearings from Los Angeles. The sheriff testified that when the strike started last August the water district asked for protection of its property and he swore in approximately 150 special deputies. He said his regular force of 26 men was insufficient to preserve order. He said the special deputies were selected on recommendations by police heads in Riverside and other counties.

Asked if he employed any men from strike-breaking agencies, the sheriff said that he did not.

The sheriff testified that he had seen affidavits charging brutality and heard rumors of attacks upon strikers but that none of these had been substantiated by investigations he made.

They said a substantial sum—perhaps $400,000,000 to $600,000,000—may be included in the 1938 budget for paying off existing debt.

This, plus operation of financial provisions of the social security and railroad retirement acts, would liquidate about $2,000,000,000 of federal obligations now in the hands of the public.

Under the security and rail pension laws, about $1,500,000,000 of the government debt will be shifted from private holders to the treasury during the next fiscal year.

U. S. BUDGET TO RELEASE HUGE FUND

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A balanced federal budget probably would send the owners of $2,000,000,000 in tax-free government securities searching for new fields of investment, fiscal authorities said today.

This transfer will be accomplished by retiring present outstanding obligations as they mature. Then, instead of selling new securities to the public, the treasury will issue special obligations to security and railroad pension reserve accounts.

These obligations are issued against tax collections under the two social programs. The cash collected from the taxes drops into the treasury's general fund and is spent for supplies, services, public works or other government expenses.

EXPECT BRITISH ACTION ON SHANGHAI DEATHS
LONDON. (AP)—Britain will enter the nine-power treaty talks at Brussels next Wednesday, it was indicated today, with a "much stiffer back" as a result of repeated Japanese offenses against British troops and property in China.

The troublesome Spanish war negotiations—still deadlocked on the British plan for withdrawal of foreign troops—was virtually shelved over the week-end as British ministers devoted attention to incidents in the Orient, and the approaching conference aimed to curb the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden devoted another of his busy week-ends to the Far Eastern problem while gulf-afflicted Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain kept in close touch with the situation from his country estate.

The sharpest protest yet in the growing series of representations to the Tokyo government was expected to be dispatched as soon as the facts concerning the killing of three Royal Ulster riflemen yesterday at Shanghai became available.

British military headquarters at Shanghai said the three were hit in a two-hour shelling by Japanese artillery. Three others were wounded and one was shell-shocked.

The matter will be aired in house of commons debate next week. Laborites were expected to redouble their pressure for a boycott of Japanese goods. The government itself was firmly opposed to any official boycott but the movement apparently was spreading among the public.

DEFEND RIGHT TO MOVE CROPS
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Declaring "the freedom of the highway is as sacred as freedom of speech," the executive committee of Associated Farmers of California, Inc., was on record here today as insisting organized labor not interfere with a farmer harvesting or moving his own crops.

The committee, which represents 23,000 farmers in 43 counties, also adopted a resolution at yesterday's meeting opposing the proposed unilateral legislature, declaring it would give the heavily populated areas of the state control of legislation.

Liberty Birds Brought to Zoo

NEW YORK. (AP)—Nine "Liberty" birds, the first ever exported alive from Guatemala, went to the Bronx Zoo today but the scientists who brought them here had anything but liberty in the task.

The Quetzals, national symbol of Guatemala, because they usually die in captivity and hence are considered symbolical of freedom, kept Dr. Wolfgang Von Hagen and assistants on the jump coming up from Honduras with this schedule:

They were awakened daily at 6 a. m. for an eye-opener of cod liver oil; were fed a mixture of corn grits, bananas and alligator pears an hour later; were fed worms two hours later; were fed again at noon and again at 3 p. m. Under the security and rail pension laws, about $1,500,000,000 of the government debt will be shifted from private holders to the treasury during the next fiscal year.

Mother Demands Custody of Son

Asking $40 a month for support of their two-year-old son, Herman Hoyt Chapel, Mrs. Madelyn D. Chapel filed suit in superior court today asking that she be given exclusive control of the child.

Defendant in the action is Herman C. Chapel, who Mrs. Chapel alleges is not qualified to care for the boy. She alleges she and her husband are separated, and that the husband has threatened to kill both her and the boy. The complaint was filed by Leo J. Friis, Anaheim attorney.

CITRUS GAINS OVER LAST YEAR

largely for frost protection and the season's outcome to individual growers varied greatly because of the freeze, he said.

Powell said the southern Orange county exchange marketed only 1300 fewer cars of valencias than last year, but for this smaller crop received $200,000 more than last year. He said the growers received 74 cents more per packed box than last year, and $1.43 more than the average for the past five years.

LARGER CULLAGE
The sales manager reported that the equivalent of 24,000 cars of Southern California valencias were marketed by all shippers this season, which was 28 per cent less than in 1936 and 44 per cent less than in 1935.

However, cullage this season was 30 per cent compared to 7.5 per cent last year, which means that more than 10,000 cars additional went through the packing house, bringing total fruit handled to within 4 per cent of 1936. The exchange handled 82 per cent of the Southern California valencias crop, Powell said.

He termed the newly developed X-ray invaluable, stating that a great volume of fruit was salvaged for fresh fruit markets that otherwise would have been discarded, and that quantities of damaged fruit kept at home, that under former methods went to market.

Keeping the bad fruit out of fresh fruit channels kept it from getting a black eye, and gave consumer satisfaction.

BUSINESS HEALTHY
General Manager Paul S. Armstrong, who with Powell just returned from a tour of eastern markets, said that good business is trying to prevail throughout the country, and is for the most part succeeding, in spite of jitters of business men and strikes of employees.

Wage and salary increases over the nation helped displace the orange crop, he said, but the market was curtailed by the increase in price necessities, highest since the depression started. Unusually high competition from other fresh fruits was faced this past season, it was said.

Armstrong injected the controversial subject of canned orange juice into the meeting when he outlined the policy of the exchange in regard to this problem.

"The exchange," he said, "has been manufacturing the unshipped portion of our growers' crops into various products and constantly developing new ones for more than 20 years. While canned orange juice is the most obvious product and has been improved in recent years, it has not developed faster because it still leaves a lot to be desired compared to fresh juice, in the opinion of most consumers."

"The Exchange Orange Products company is canning some juice to perfect processes and keep abreast of technical developments, and we have and can readily expand the facilities to produce grower-owned plant."

COLLECTIVE SELLING
To date we have felt the growers' interest is better served by collectively selling fruit for canning to commercial canners which we have been doing at good prices and we doubt whether the grower could have received any better return if the exchange had canned and marketed the juice itself. We also believe, if all the facts were known, that more money has been lost in the canned orange juice business to date than has been made in it.

"The exchange is glad to work with the commercial canners, selling them at fair prices so that the grower gets his fair share of the value of the finished product. We are prepared to can juice on a larger scale whenever that appears necessary as a means to protect or improve the growers' return, but this has not seemed necessary or desirable up to this time."

DEFEND RIGHT TO MOVE CROPS
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Declaring "the freedom of the highway is as sacred as freedom of speech," the executive committee of Associated Farmers of California, Inc., was on record here today as insisting organized labor not interfere with a farmer harvesting or moving his own crops.

The committee, which represents 23,000 farmers in 43 counties, also adopted a resolution at yesterday's meeting opposing the proposed unilateral legislature, declaring it would give the heavily populated areas of the state control of legislation.

They were awakened daily at 6 a. m. for an eye-opener of cod liver oil; were fed a mixture of corn grits, bananas and alligator pears an hour later; were fed worms two hours later; were fed again at noon and again at 3 p. m. On top of that, they had to be taken to the zoo in a specially heated car.

They said a substantial sum—perhaps $400,000,000 to $600,000,000—may be included in the 1938 budget for paying off existing debt.

This, plus operation of financial provisions of the social security and railroad retirement acts, would liquidate about $2,000,000,000 of federal obligations now in the hands of the public.

Under the security and rail pension laws, about $1,500,000,000 of the government debt will be shifted from private holders to the treasury during the next fiscal year.

CLAIMS REDS AT WORK ON U. S. SHIPS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Chairman Copeland (D., N. Y.) of the senate commerce committee took preliminary steps today toward an investigation of what he called "Communist influences" at work on American ships.

He ordered the committee's staff to collect all information available on labor disputes aboard American merchant marine ships, including the strike of seamen on the Albig during a South American cruise.

The Albig strike was "mutiny," Copeland asserted. He declared it was one of many incidents in which crews had refused to obey orders as a result of labor disputes.

"I am determined to try to get at the bottom of this Communist seamen's fight," Copeland said. "I'm sick and tired of this business. There is no use in building ships unless we have seamen that will operate them."

He added that if the investigation showed it to be feasible he would recommend to congress creation of a national mediation authority to handle maritime labor disputes.

PLANNING SUIT IS POSTPONED
Hearing of charges by William A. Bartholomae, Jr., Newport harbor yachtsman, that values of two of his lots on Balboa island were damaged by a special variance in the city zoning ordinance given the planning commission's secretary was postponed today.

Bartholomae's petition for an injunction against Dr. Howard Seager, secretary of the Newport Beach city planning commission, went off calendar in Superior court yesterday.

Judge G. K. Seaver's court yesterday and today Dr. Seager filed a general demurrer to Bartholomae's complaint.

The wealthy yachtsman, suing the Bartholomae Oil company, charges that proceedings of the planning commission, which recommended granting of a variance so that Dr. Seager might construct a building directly on the property line, were irregular. He also charges that proceedings of the city council in approving the variance were insufficient, and maintains that the view from his two lots is obstructed by the building, which is now under construction.

Sardine Season To Open Monday
SAN PEDRO. (AP)—Sardines caught during the five months season opening next Monday will bring fishermen $13 a ton here.

Canning factory operators agreed yesterday to pay this price, an increase of $3 a ton over last year.

A thousand fishermen were busy today making ready 100 purse seine boats and nets to put to sea Monday.

Tall Women Live Longest, Life Insurance Expert Says

NEW YORK. (AP)—There's nothing you ladies can do about your height, but those of you who are tall can look forward to a longer life than others of your sex.

So said Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician and third vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in addressing the annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors of America. There is a definite relationship between build and mortality rate among women, he concluded.

At ages below 30, he said, the lowest mortality rate was among women of medium height and average weight; between 30 and 39 longevity favored tall women while among those past 40 there was little difference between mortality ratios among women of medium height and tall women.

SANTA ANA WOMAN RESCUED FROM WAR ZONE IN CHINA

MRS. WOLFE SAFE ABOARD U. S. LINER

Chefoo Hospital Head To Return Home

Safely out of the war zone, a Santa Ana woman who has been hospital manager of the Chefoo hospital in China for several years will head for home and security aboard the liner President McKinley tomorrow.

Mrs. Clara H. Wolfe, daughter of Mrs. Albert Husted, 514 East Chestnut street, and mother of Jesse Wolfe jr., Santa Ana High school student, arrived in Yokohama, Japan, on the navy transport Chaumont Wednesday, the state department in Washington announced.
Relatives here received a radio-gram several days ago that Mrs. Wolfe planned to leave Chefoo if she could make connections, and they were greatly relieved when informed by The Journal today that she was reported safely in Yokohama.
Business manager of the Chinese hospital since 1910, Mrs. Wolfe had visited here last summer on a vacation. Her son has been living with his grandmother while attending school here.

Mrs. Wolfe was one of 128 American refugees brought out of danger zones at Chefoo, Shanghai, Tsingtao and Manila on the Chaumont. Most of them planned to leave for the United States on the President McKinley tomorrow or on the liner President Hoover, which sails Monday.

TO HIRE 35 ON HOLIDAY MAIL

Postmaster Frank R. Harwood launched preparations today for the Christmas mailing and delivery rush.

He sent out cards to all carriers eligible on the civil service list, asking them to report to the post office to see about extra work for the heavy Christmas business. Harwood said today he expects to employ from 35 to 40 extra men to help out with the Yuletide business. These men will be drawn from the civil service lists.

The rush is expected to start around Dec. 15 in local deliveries. Foreign mailings should be made by around Nov. 15 in order to reach the distant countries.

Seek to Eject Newport Cafe

Newport Beach's zoning ordinance was in the courts again today with an injunction complaint filed against a woman cafe operator by owners of adjoining property.

C. Harold Hopkins and Norman C. Nourse filed suit yesterday in superior court against Marguerite L. McCulloch, who, they charge, is operating a cafe in a district zoned for single-family dwellings at Central avenue and J street. Their complaint, filed by Lew Blodgett, Santa Ana attorney, asks a temporary restraining order and a permanent injunction on grounds the cafe business damages value of their property.

Riley to Assist With Convention

Supervisor Harry D. Riley of Anaheim has been named on the program committee for the County Supervisors' Association convention in San Diego next March, he was notified today.

Riley was appointed by C. E. Grier of San Bernardino county, president of the association. Others who will serve on the committee are T. LeRoy Richards of San Diego, chairman; W. C. Moore of Riverside, Hugh Osborn of Imperial and W. L. Fowler of San Bernardino county.

Asks New Trial In Damage Case

Guenter W. Strandt, 18, who lost a $30,000 accident injury suit this week because he was riding with an unlicensed driver, filed today a motion for a new trial.

Strandt sued John W. Cannon for injuries in an accident two years ago near Irvine. A superior court jury returned a 9-3 verdict in favor of Cannon, and today Charles Swanner, Strandt's attorney, filed notice of motion for the new trial.

SHEARING THE GOOD THINGS OF LIFE

By PROF. C. DE CORN

There are many deluded persons nowadays who hold fallacious ideas about both simple and complex problems. That is because they have not read the works of the great scientists and philosopher.

For instance, some people, opiated by wishful thinking, mistakenly imagine that rain, one of the necessary elements and forces of nature, is merely drops of water from the clouds. Those who entertain such beliefs are under a cloud, so to speak. Rain is not such a simple matter. Upon delving deeply into the subject, we discover that rain really is sensitized moisture raised by solar evaporation to a varied height, where it remains in a state of delicate suspension until atmospheric disturbances of relatively insignificant energy cause condensation. That is why keeping the old stand-pat members of the supreme court in harness as long as possible will make more and better jobs for everyone. It is also the reason we should disregard the gusty passions of the majority.

Also a number of people are misled into believing that a protective tariff will help this country to maintain high wages and a higher standard of living. It is in fact a destructive policy. That may be learned from the philosophic works of the great economists, John Stuart Mill and Adam Smith. They teach that free trade is the policy that will make us all rich and happy. It is because if those who happen to have gobbled up the greater part of the country's wealth can buy manufactured goods cheaply from China, where the workers live on rice and rats and work for a few cents a day, that enables our super-rich philanthropists to have that much more left to do good with.

It thus permits them to shear the comforts of life with and from all the rest of us.

TOOLS STOLEN

Tools valued at $35 were stolen from Joseph Moore's back yard at Eighteenth and Placencia streets, Costa Mesa, he reported to the sheriff's office yesterday.

NO POLITICS IN JOB SAYS DR. RUSSELL

Dr. Edward Lee Russell, appointed yesterday as assistant probation officer to act as juvenile court psychiatrist, denied today that the appointment had any political significance or any connection with the coordinating council battle.

"I have been serving as psychiatrist for the juvenile court," Dr. Russell said, "for the past six years. The salary ordinance which went into effect yesterday provided, however, that the psychiatrist should be a deputy probation officer, so Judge Ames made that appointment to conform with the ordinance."

Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames, rebuffed by supervisors when he asked that the coordinating council director's salary be placed at $3000 a year so that Dr. Russell's services might be retained for that position, warned the board last month that he would appoint a psychiatrist for as yet.

Realtors Hear Of Deep Plowing

A technical discussion of the development of land by deep-plowing was given by E. S. Wells, office manager of Post Brothers Tractor company, before members of the Santa Ana Realty board at a weekly luncheon in the Rossmore cafe yesterday.

Six foreign countries have made inquiries about the new deep-plowing methods used here, Wells told the realtors. Deep-plowing, he declared, makes it possible to reclaim soil that has been worn out by constant use.

President Earl Hawks conducted the meeting and introduced Wells.

juvenile cases regardless of their action.

"I do not intend," said the judge at that time, "to be deprived of the services of a competent psychiatrist." He pointed out that Dr. Russell's fees, when he was appointed for special cases by the juvenile court, might run to as much as $3000 a year, resulting in added expense to the county which would have been avoided if the supervisors had approved that salary for the council director. No director has been named as yet.

Fines Are Given Twelve Speeders

An even dozen speeding fines were levied by Judge J. G. Mitchell in Santa Ana police court yesterday. Those fined:

Ralph Aguilar, Del Mar, $10; Leo Kanawyer, Cucamonga (speeding and failure to appear), $13; Daniel W. Shetler, Alhambra, $10; Otto W. Greathouse, Santa Ana, $8; Marian W. Boice, Long Beach, $8; Arthur D. Lewis, Santa Ana, $8.
C. D. Woodward, Orange, $8; Herman H. Williams, Orange, $8; Harry L. Bernstein, Los Angeles, $6; Charles A. Coleman, Santa Ana, $6; Johnathan P. Davis, Los Angeles, $6, and Lee Brown, Santa Ana, $6.

Joe R. Lopez, Newport Beach, pleaded not guilty to a charge of reckless driving. He waived a jury and will face trial at 10 a. m. Nov. 2.

Rev. Inwood to Conduct Rites

The Rev. Alfred Inwood, former Santa Ana pastor, will be in charge of services at the Richland Avenue Methodist church at Richland avenue and Parson streets, it was announced today. The service will open at 10 a. m.

BUREAU HITS SMUDGE LAW

Charging that present "heating, oil and labor conditions" make it impractical at this time to attempt to regulate smudge smoke, the Orange County Farm Bureau today had gone on record as opposing the proposed anti-smudge ordinance presented to the county supervisors earlier this week.

Farm Bureau policy was tentatively adopted early this month, prior to presentation of the ordinance, when the citrus department drafted a resolution opposing a regulatory ordinance unless it "could be drafted to eliminate the old lard-pail type of heaters."

Secretary Roland D. Flaherty of the Farm Bureau said the citrus growers themselves are using the most modern equipment available to eliminate smoke, but that a drastic ordinance might "sacrifice the citrus industry, which is the life of Orange county agriculture."

CAR STOLEN

A car belonging to Benigno Mendoza, route 1 box 77, Garden Grove, was reported stolen from Lincoln and Harbor boulevards in Anaheim last night.

ANNOUNCING THE 1938

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12

The modern "twelve" at medium price

IN THE ANNUAL, fashionable parade of model after model, improvements, changes, refinements are to be observed on every hand. But how seldom the whole car departs from traditional ways.

The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12 during 1936 and 1937 did — and still does. The car for 1938 does even more. Truly it can be said: It breaks with tradition again!

Graceful streamlines that gave the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR a distinction of its own in two years previous are even more pronounced this year. If the bold front of this new car reminds you of the nose of some great air-liner, it is made that way for the same basic reason. Principles of functional design, rather than mere style, dictate the car's modern form. Thus the low and horizontal radiator grille, aside from its beauty, increases cooling efficiency.

This new car breaks with the usual, too, in its modern power-plant. The V-type 12-cylinder engine, used and approved by more than 45,000 enthusiastic LINCOLN-ZEPHYR owners during 1936 and 1937, has been refined to give an even smoother performance. And new-type valve lifters, with oil cushions, bring even quieter operation. . . . Developing 110 horsepower, the engine gives 14 to 18 miles to the gallon — twelve thrifty cylinders!

The basic construction of this car is a definite break with tradition. In closed types, body and frame are not two separate units, but one unit, a steel framework, all members welded together. To this rigid framework, steel top, sides and flooring are welded. You ride surrounded by steel — and view road and landscape through wide windshield and windows of safety glass.

The new LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is bigger inside, bigger outside. The wheelbase is lengthened to 125 inches. Great comfort results from the placing of car weight and passenger weight toward the middle. Prove this on your favorite back road!

This year, a new Convertible Sedan and a new Convertible Coupe bring to six the number of LINCOLN-ZEPHYR body types from which you may choose.

This modern "twelve" is still the only car of its kind at any price! Lincoln Motor Company, builders of Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 motor cars.

Prices begin at $1295 delivered at Detroit factory. State and Federal taxes extra. The Sedan illustrated is $1395 delivered at Detroit factory, white side-wall tires included.

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

ORANGE 'Y' CAMPAIGN IS STARTED

ORANGE.—A "kickoff breakfast" inaugurated the annual Y. M. C. A. drive here Friday morning in the Sunshine Brouer, when workers heard plans for raising $5000, the financial goal of the "Y" for this year.

President of the Board Ralph Hull introduced W. W. Perry, director of the campaign, who outlined the purposes of the drive. He also instructed his major assistants, L. L. Williams and J. T. McInnis. Under Williams, captains are Harold Gorton, Kenneth King, Mrs. Percy Green, Dayton Ditchey and R. C. Patton. The McInnis captains are Mrs. Rose Harlan, M. M. Fishback, Jack Morris, Willard Gailey and Alfred Higgins.

Two additional speakers, E. E. Campbell and A. A. Robinson, outlined some "Do's and Don'ts" for workers to observe and W. O. Hart told why the goal has been increased over that of last year. An increase in the number of boys served and needed repairs to the "Y" building account for the raise, it was said.

The annual open meeting of the "Y" board will be held Monday evening at the Woman's club when a dinner will be served and the drive will officially start Tuesday morning.

GROWING PAINS

Copyright, 1937, Ensign Features Inc.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds —By— ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—Hollywood isn't the place for an actor who's practically grown up in the movies. He may have done the best jobs in every picture he's had, and he may be a good boy, but around the lots he's stamped. He's "just a kid."

That's why it looks as if Frank Albertson will be heading for New York, to be gone a couple of years at least.

Frank is 28. He's been in pictures nearly 10 years. He learned about acting the hard way—by acting. He wasn't very good at first, didn't have to be. That was during an era of "youth pictures." But he learned, and the boy is good now.

Frank isn't a hard-luck story. He can get jobs any day in the week, and he can get contracts. But in Hollywood he figures he'd always be just someone who's been around a long time, playing "brother" roles.

HE'S STILL 'FRANKIE'

"A lot of people still call me 'Frankie,'" he explains. "Not that I care—but that's what I mean. I sign a contract, and maybe I'd get good parts, and maybe I wouldn't. After a year or two I'd have collected salary, but what would I have besides? If I didn't get good parts, I'd be off about the studio, the way all of us do. If I leave now, I know I can make a living, at least, and I'll have a chance of doing more—at least to amount to something on the stage."

Frank's from Fergus Falls, Minn., but he's been around Hollywood since he was in short pants. He worked around the studios before he ever faced a camera, and you can gather that the "romance" in picture-making has worn pretty thin for him by now.

Last season he clicked on Broadway in his first stage play, "Brother Rat." (There's irony in that—even on the stage the "brother" angle followed him.) The comedy was bought for pictures, and Frank was considered for his original role, but the studio wasn't sure he was "the type." Wayne Morris is getting the part, which is all right with Frank, too.

TOO MANY FIANCEES —By— KATHRYN CULVER

Guy Garrison's millionaire Uncle Sherman has been so insistent upon his getting married, that, while wintering in Miami, Guy sends the old man a purchased photo of Joan Wilton, night-club singer, saying he is engaged to her. Then, he actually becomes engaged to Mabel Lane but, when Uncle Sherman comes to Miami on his yacht to take Guy and Joan on a cruise, Guy is afraid to spring a new fiancée on him. Hence, he offers to pay Joan to go on the cruise as his "fiancee," and to do her best to antagonize Uncle Sherman, while Mabel is playing up to him, so that he will order Guy to jilt Joan in favor of Mabel. However, Uncle Sherman, an irascible invalid under the care of a nurse, Laura Miller, has meanwhile discovered that Joan is a night-club singer and, believing her to be a gold-digger, has bribed Dick Young, detective, to steal her away from Guy by posing as a wealthier suitor. When Guy, Joan and Mabel board the yacht, Uncle Sherman punts, "So this is Joan? Kiss me, young lady."

CHAPTER XII
KEEPING in mind the part she was playing, Joan threw her arms about the old man's neck, and planted a moist kiss on his leathery cheek. He stepped back with an expression of distaste on his face, and Joan was triumphantly certain she had made a good start toward causing him to dislike her.

There were more introductions, all in a jumble. Mabel being presented to Mr. Garrison while Guy made a halting explanation of her presence; all of them being introduced to Dick and Laura.

Guy escorted Joan to her cabin and went in. He grasped her hands and grinned widely.

"You were perfect, Joan! The old boy hasn't been so shocked for forty years as when you actually kissed him. I could see him mentally cataloguing you as a forward female."

Joan was standing in the center of the lavishly furnished cabin, looking about her with sparkling eyes.

She murmured, "I'm glad I did all right." Then she clasped her hands and exclaimed, "This is perfect, Guy! I've never seen anything like this on a boat before."

"This is a yacht, not a fishing vessel," he reminded her good-naturedly.

SHE moved away from him, examining the exquisite appointments. Guy started to leave, then turned back thoughtfully.

"I don't know who this fellow Young is that Uncle has rung in on the cruise. But he looks like a good egg. You might—know—that, if it's actually all off with your sea-going swain."

Joan turned and stared at him. "What are you stuttering about?" Guy shrugged. "I was just suggesting that Mr. Young might make a good substitute for your friend Actor when our engagement is busted."

Joan sank into a cushioned chair and began laughing.

"I don't see anything funny about it," Guy protested. "Why shouldn't you avail yourself of such an opportunity? He must have scads of money. Uncle Sherman wouldn't have him aboard as a guest if his financial rating was not tip-top."

Joan regarded him quizzically. "Dollars are all important to you, aren't they?"

"They're mighty important to anybody," Guy said defensively. "But I've only just said hello to the man." Joan protested. "Let me get acquainted with him before I plan a raid on his hypothetical fortune."

Guy said hesitantly. "Well... it was just an idea that popped into my head."

He turned and went out with a wave of his hand.

By the slim margin of a conversion and safety, Riverside Poly's Bears came out of the Citrus Belt league football cellar to upset Santa Ana's previously unbeaten Saints, 9 to 6, at Poly field yesterday.

Coach Bill Foote's local preps, who were whipped more decisively than the score indicated, now stand .667 in the league with two wins against one loss. They go to Pomona for their "big game" next Friday, wind up their conference schedule at San Bernardino Nov. 19.

Riverside, defeated by Pomona and Chaffey in past starts, came here a slight underdog, but Bill Mumma's Bears dominated the struggle with a hard-running quarterback, Joe Miner, and a rangy pass receiver in Thompson, left end.

MUSICK FUMBLES

Late in the first quarter, after the visitors had been penalized 15 yards for holding, Gifford got off a punt which Fullback Bill Musick of the Saints fumbled on his own 21. That paved the way for Riverside's touchdown. A pass intended for Thompson was called good on Santa Ana's 11 when interference was ruled. Gifford picked up a yard, and on second down shot a pass to Thompson, who ploughed to the 1-yard line.

Brusca, fullback, went over on a sneak play for the score, and Gifford kicked goal to shove the Bears off to a 7-0 lead.

Riverside threatened again in the second quarter when Gifford quick-kicked out of bounds on Santa Ana's 21. Marvin Webb gained 8 yards, but an offside penalty and Melvin Baron's fake reverse set the Saints back to the 18. Eugene Hunkeler's punt was blocked, and Ed Thompson of Riverside fell on the ball on the Saints' 22. The gun ended the half after a penalty and a running play which left the ball on the 25.

Failing to make a first down by inches on his own 45 in the third quarter, Musick punted to Riverside's 30, but a clipping penalty pushed the Bears clear back to their own 5. Miner got off a wobbly punt which George Higashi, Saint reserve, caught on the 32 and returned to the 24. Musick hit right guard for 5 yards. On third down, he took a reverse from Baron and hot-footed it 17 yards. From Riverside's 2, Musick and Webb were stopped within a yard of the goal, and Musick went the rest of the way on a high plunge over center. His conversion kick was blocked, and Riverside retained the lead, 7-6.

WEBB TO PIPER

Webb got off a beautiful 25-yard pass to Wayne Piper, halfback, for a first down on Riverside's 24 in the fourth quarter, but the Saints lost the ball on downs. Jack McClure, giant end, recovered a fumble, and the Saints advanced to the 15 on a pass from Webb to Piper. Riverside finally took possession on its 20, and after working the ball to the 38, punted to Musick who returned to the Saints' 39. Collins, who had been injured early in the game, returned to action only to have one of his passes intercepted by Riverside's Bentley at mid-field with two minutes of play remaining. Riverside was forced to punt to Musick, and the Saints, in scrambling for victory, began firing incomplete passes. They wound up on their own goal line, and Collins, fading back to pass accidentally stepped out of the Saint safety zone to give Riverside two points, 9 to 6.

Stanford, Beavers Seek Second Spot

PALO ALTO. (AP)—Stanford's Indians and the Beavers of Oregon State college, each coming up strongly after early season defeats, clash here today in a Pacific coast conference football game considered about a "toss-up."

Each team has one conference defeat marring its record, with Oregon State listing a tie in addition. A victory for either team would put it in second place behind unbeaten California. Stanford has defeated the Beavers every year for 23 years.

SPORT SLANTS

By TOM (PAP) PAPROCKI

Three years ago Vanderbilt's Carl Hinkle earned a starting berth at center. Ever since he has been brilliant. He is a 60-minute player. In two seasons he played eight full games without relief. He never has missed a minute on account of injuries.

In 1935, when Vanderbilt was playing Temple university in Philadelphia, and Hinkle was a sophomore, he staged a performance few expected him to equal.

It was a night game. Thousands of umbrella-covered fans sat in a steady rain. Water poured down the press-box windows. Play had to be followed through the loud-speaker announcements.

"Smucker carried the ball stopped by Hinkle," the tinny voice informed.

"Are those Hinkle boys brothers?" asked one sports writer.

"Quintuplets—it's a cinch," answered another. "No two men could be doing all that."

It was, of course, just one man. Carl Columbus Hinkle.

Blessed with football instinct, a keen mind, a rugged body, admirable qualities of leadership, Hinkle should establish himself as one of the outstanding centers in the U. S. before he completes his varsity career.

A man who plays hard regardless of the score, he will be remembered as one of the greatest captains in Vanderbilt's history.

Husky Seek 13th Win Over Idaho

SEATTLE. (AP)—Coach Jim Phelan hoped his second team would chalk up Washington's 13th straight win over the University of Idaho here today. Barring perfect weather or an unexpectedly tough bunch of Vandals, Phelan planned to keep his first string on the bench. The Husky regulars practiced all week for the California game next Saturday while the second string was groomed to face Idaho's Vandals.

While Laguna Beach and Tustin high schools were battling it out for Orange league supremacy yesterday, and getting no farther than when they started by playing a scoreless game, Brea-Olinda's Wildcats jumped into the lead with a 37-6 victory over Glendale High school's reserves yesterday. San Juan Capistrano forfeited to S. S. (Shorty) Smith's gridders.

Neither Artists nor Tillers could penetrate the stubborn defense of the two teams. Tustin carried the ball to the 8-yard line on one occasion and Laguna Beach had the ball on the 20, but was held.

Larry Monroy and Walt Linker sparked for Coach Ralph (Bill) Cole's eleven, while Rollo Beck stole the show with his running and spectacular defensive work for Maurice (Red) Guyer's squad. Monroy was sensational in running back several punts. Neither team's passing clicked.

Quarterback Buster Nelson was the leading ground gainer for the Wildcats, who first won a forfeit from San Juan Capistrano and then spanked the Glendale reserves. Roy Ledbetter played well at fullback.

Armstrong makes his next start Dec. 6 in Cleveland in a non-title bout against an opponent not yet selected. Sarron will make his debut as a lightweight in the New York Hippodrome Nov. 22. His opponent will be named next week.

Parelli Risks Mat Belt Against 'Red' Barry Here

Red Barry, the Boston lightweight heavyweight challenger, will get a crack at the world title and the belt emblematic of the crown on Monday night at the Orange County Athletic club when he meets Champion Joe Parelli in a three-fall battle.

Parelli, successful in defending his title here Monday night and again at Los Angeles Wednesday, has agreed to put his belt, in spite of the fact that under ordinary circumstances the champion demands either a finish or a two-hour match before risking his belt.

SARRON BOWS IN SIXTH TO ARMSTRONG

Los Angeles Negro Wins Clear Claim To 'Feather' Title

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK. (AP)—Over-the-weight or under-the-weight, it's all the same to little Henry Armstrong, the brown streak from the Pacific coast.

They said the Los Angeles negro couldn't make the featherweight limit of 126 pounds and still be strong, but last night he came in at 124 pounds, almost knocked Peteey Sarron's block off and won himself undisputed possession of the world 126-pound title.

Thanks to Armstrong's flying fists, the feathers now have a ruler at whom no stones can be cast. He's the king pin in states controlled by the National Boxing association, where Sarron formerly held forth, as well as in New York, California and other so-called "rebel" territory.

CROWD PAYS $34,708

A crushing left to the pit of the stomach, quickly followed by a murderous right flush to the button, polished off the game and clever Sarron after almost six rounds of sizzling milling in Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 11,847 parted with $34,708.28 to welcome Mike Jacobs into the garden and see Armstrong, in many respects a miniature edition of Joe Louis, hang up his 22nd knockout in his last 23 fights.

The knockout climaxed five of the fastest, most furiously fought rounds Garden fans have seen in years. Sarron, off to a dazzling lead, blew it in the fifth and sixth when Armstrong finally got organized and began to go to town.

In the sixth he's back to the ropes and his head protected by his arms, Sarron stood flat-footed while a relentless Armstrong, his shuttle now wide open, pummeled short but deadly punches into the Birmingham lad's face and midriff.

Sarron rallied momentarily to punch his way into the clear, but his attack bogged down when Armstrong belted a terrific left to the stomach and a second later when an equally pile-driving right crashed against his chin, the Syrian's knees sagged and he hit the canvas.

"Those two blows hurt me," said Sarron after the fight, "but not so badly that I couldn't have got up. I missed one of the referee's counts. I was looking for nine when he said ten."

The little Syrian attributed his lack of fire and pep to the ordeal of weight making. "He's at his best around 120 pounds. He's 30 years old and twice within six months he's been called on to come down to 126."

"I think I will make a lightweight out of Peteey," said Manager Jim Erwin. "I doubt if he'll ever try to make 126 pounds again. It takes too much out of him."

CLEVELAND BOUT NEXT

Oddly enough, Armstrong, who was expected to be the real sufferer from the reducing process, showed no adverse effects. He was as strong at the finish as he was at the start, notwithstanding that he was performing at six pounds under his normal fighting weight.

Armstrong said his unimpressive showing at the start was because of over-anxiousness to make a one punch fight to start.

"I fought a sucker fight to start," he said. "I had instructions to punch with Sarron for four or five rounds. But he hit me oftener and harder than I figured and I disregarded orders and tried to nail him. When my seconds brought me into line about the fourth round, I began to connect squarely. Sarron is tough and hard to fight."

Armstrong makes his next start Dec. 6 in Cleveland in a non-title bout against an opponent not yet selected. Sarron will make his debut as a lightweight in the New York Hippodrome Nov. 22. His opponent will be named next week.

'STAGE STRUCK' AT BROADWAY

How a despondent girl's suicide hangs out the dormant acting talents in a stage-struck young lady is strikingly depicted in "Stage Struck," which opens today at the Broadway theater with Katharine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou in the starring roles.

The story embraces the varied experiences of a group of ambitious girls residing in a theatrical boarding house in New York.

When the society girl wins a coveted role in a big Broadway production because her father secretly finances the play, another girl who has aspired to portray the role breaks under the strain and commits suicide. How the tragedy reacts on her former companions, the society girl and the blonde dancer in particular, builds up to its powerful conclusion.

On the same bill is a second feature, "Hold 'Em, Navy," with Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle and John Howard in the top spots. There are plenty of chuckles in this picture, advance notices say, as well as romance and the thrilling fare of the United States navy. The picture has a freshness of treatment and romantic charm, besides the thrilling football played before cheering crowds. The film has a most unusual and surprising ending.

Show Martini Film Thursday

The love of a Hollywood extra girl and an Italian singer who seeks film fame is unfolded in "Music for Madame," the musical romance starring Nino Martini and featuring lovely Joan Fontaine which will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday, according to Manager George King.

"Music for Madame" is the story of a native Italian singer who arrives in Hollywood, becomes involved with a pair of questionable characters, and is innocently mixed up in a daring robbery. Martini is heard in six songs, varying from opera to ballad, according to Manager George King.

The music is an outstanding item, and there is sinuous dancing, drumming rhythms, fascinating songs with grand spectacles and thrills concocted by camera magic.

POWELL-LOY FILM AT W. C.

A side-splitting laugh treat is in store for theatergoers who see "Double Wedding," now showing at the West Coast theater with the perennial favorites, William Powell and Myrna Loy, in what is a picture ever funnier than their famous "Thin Man" series.

The new romantic comedy tells the story of four people, a penniless but happy-go-lucky artist who lives in a trailer, the owner of a fashionable New York gown shop, her sister who has yearnings to be a movie star, and the sister's half-hearted suitor.

The gown shop owner, played by Miss Loy, is determined that her sister, Florence Rice, should marry Joan Beal, the "milk-toast" suitor, but instead the younger sister meets the devil-may-care artist and falls completely under his spell. The dignified shop owner exerts all the persuasion she can command to break up the affair between her sister and the artist, only in the end to fall a victim to his indisputable charm herself.

"Dangerously Yours" is one of the most deceptively concocted mystery stories of the year. Cesar Romero and Phyllis Brooks are featured, playing two young adventurers who, even as they kiss, dream of the world's most beautiful diamond, and plan to outwit each other for its possession. The film is a peril-packed adventure that flashes excitingly from ocean liner to city streets.

STELLA DALLAS AT WALKER'S

Movie fans who have come to expect something unusual and outstanding in a Samuel Goldwyn picture will not be disappointed when they see "Stella Dallas," starring Barbara Stanwyck, which opens Sunday at Walker's theater, accompanied by "Wild and Woolly," featuring Jane Withers.

"Stella Dallas" was made as a silent picture 12 years ago and brought film fame to the entire cast. The poignant story of mother love and sacrifice has been modernized in this 1937 version. The cast also includes John Boles, Anne Shirley, Alan Hale, Al Shean, Tim Holt and Barbara O'Neil.

That Withers girl is on the loose again out where the West begins, and the West was never so wild as when Jane and her gun-totin' grandpaw, played by Walter Brennan, create pioneer pandemonium on runaway wheels for her grand comedy, "Wild and Woolly." Hollywood's little Miss Mischief goes to town in the "Mesa City Pioneer Day Jubilee." Aided by the best cast she's ever had, Jane twirls a rope and rides like a saddle-born veteran as she revels in the "days of '49" atmosphere recreated for her by Grandpaw Brennan.

The national resources committee informed the President in 1936 there were more than 175,000 federal, state and local government units in the United States.

I JUST FOUND OUT—How a Private Museum Grows

By MILLARD BROWNE

Two fascinating life stories are narrated by the mere correlation of 15,000 knickknacks gathered together in a small room at out-of-the-way Ocean View.

These 15,000 articles symbolize the story of Western United States from as far back as 400,000 years ago. What's more, they ARE the life story of an unassuming, elderly chemist and his wife — Mr. and Mrs. Marion Speer.

Ever since they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Speer have been collecting relics of days gone by in the area west of the Mississippi River. It's just a hobby, but they figure the public has a right to enjoy it with them.

So they've catalogued their 15,000 artifacts and put them on display at their Western Trails Museum near Ocean View. More than three thousand visitors — from noted scientists to grammar school classes — have paraded through the museum and listened to Speer's explanation of what it all means.

Strictly a non-professional hobby, the museum charges no admission fee, and the collection has no revenue whatever.

It all started back in 1893 when Speer, a lad of five years, was living in Texas. He happened to uncover a flint knifed once used by prehistoric Indians. Thrilled, he carefully preserved it and started looking for others. He's never stopped looking, probably never will. The flint knife now is labelled with a big "X" and has a place of honor in the first showcase at the Speer museum.

Most of his prized relics are articles used by Indians of the stone ages. Well represented, however, are the more recent — yet still prehistoric — settlers.

Newest additions to the Speer collection actually are the oldest. They are a number of well-preserved fossil trilobites, date back 400,000 years. They're the oldest form of life known to science.

Speer's rarest piece is a perfect Folsom spear point. So named because it was first found near Folsom, N. M., the point is found only in skeletal remains of prehistoric bison and other animals of the second ice age some 25,000 years ago. Reason for its being so rare is that they were hollowed out in the center, and thus weakened, they usually broke after being used. Speer has two-not-so-rare Folsom fragments.

The unusually complete collection is strictly a hobby for two. Speer's wife takes just as keen an interest in it as he does. Even their honeymoon was devoted to studying nature and collecting relics.

That honeymoon, Speer reminds us, was no paunt to Niagara Falls. It was a 600-mile hike down the old Oregon trail from Julesburg, Colo., to Salt Lake City. Accompanied only by a horse to carry provisions, the Speers walked the whole way, had the time of their lives glimpsing history first-hand.

It's an absorbing love of both history and nature that has kept the couple engrossed in its study of natural history. In 1932 Speer compiled his information in a book, "Western Trails," which already has sold out a first printing of 1,000 copies, now is being prepared for its second printing. He personally stood the publishing expense and sold the book mostly to friends at cost.

Besides his book and museum, Speer has a valuable collection of 22,000 pictures he's taken. Every state of the west, every negative is carefully filed away, and together they are one of the most complete photographic records of western history ever compiled.

The museum's most valuable piece is one of the few Speer and his wife didn't personally discover. A huge storage jar used by the prehistoric Zuni Indians of New Mexico, it was found in an ancient pueblo more than 60 years ago by W. H. Marcus, now retired and living in Monrovia.

Marcus, Orange county's first rural mail carrier, "practically gave" the piece to Speer, though it has been valued at over $300. It's a fairly recent condition, even the fantastic animal decorations on the outside being virtually intact.

Each of the artifacts tells Speer its own story. Some dentilium shells he collected in Colorado, for instance, are strictly sea-shells found mostly near Puget Sound, which is a pretty fair indication they were used for trading among the ancient Indians.

Speer is employed as a chemist for a major oil company. His professional interest has prompted him to add a collection of more than 500 different minerals to his archeological relics.

The Speers spend every vacation hiking, collecting, studying, fishing and photographing in a new place. Their schedule is carefully systemized. So far, they've kept an accurate log of 536,000 miles of travel — by train, wagon, mule-back, foot and auto.

Most recent jaunt was one last spring to Death Valley, where they picked up 490 different relics of ancient Indian life.

'Love Under Fire' Closes Tonight

Loretta Young and Don Ameche in "Love Under Fire" and George O'Brien and Constance Worth in "Windjammer" will be shown for the last times tonight at Walker's theater on a double-feature program that also includes a colored cartoon, a sport reel and a newsreel of late world news events.

Miss Young, a suspected jewel thief, is pursued through war-torn Spain by Ameche, a Scotland Yard detective. She is aided by Harold Huber, a Spanish officer, who thinks Miss Young has the stolen jewels. Their escapades are made hilarious by the antics of Walter Catlett, and Borrah Minevitch and his gang.

In "Windjammer," George O'Brien as a deputy state's attorney, endeavors to serve a subpoena to a millionaire yachtsman who has been evading him in winning the California to Honolulu race. Once O'Brien serves the subpoena, the millionaire refuses to turn back, but continues to Honolulu, with O'Brien an unwilling passenger. The presence on the yacht of the millionaire's daughter, played by Constance Worth, gives O'Brien added interest in the surprise-filled trip.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOBB

Mrs. Julia A. Sharp of Long Beach, Townsend speaker who appeared before Santa Ana Club No. 3 and large delegations from other clubs Thursday evening in Townsend Hall proved herself both capable and well informed. She was introduced by Phillip S. Doolittle, club president. Preceding her address, community singing was led by Grant Henderson. The crowd joined in heartily.

Mrs. Sharp began by reporting that Judge M. C. Summers and wife (Mrs. Summers is Mrs. Sharp's sister) are in Michigan engaged in dramatic work but expect to return to the Pacific coast in December to again engage in Townsend work. The judge sent this message to Pacific coast Townsendites: "Big business men are joining the Townsend movement and others are saying 'Who is this man Townsend?' He has been lied about, persecuted and represented as a fraud but he still keeps on — what has he got on the ball anyway?" So you California Townsendites come on and don't lay down on the job."

The speaker next emphasized the importance of the Townsend trading stamps as a medium of both advertising the virtues of the plan and also as a means of revenue for support of radio activities. She followed with an urging to get behind the Townsend petition drive, pointing out its importance and the possibility of a special session of the state legislature being called to initiate a national amendment to the U. S. constitution making the Townsend plan United States law. She said that in 1808 there was placed in the constitution a provision which vested in the people the right to compel congress to present for ratification by the states any amendment which the people demanded when two-thirds of the state legislatures or 32 of them joined in such initiation. Then when 36 of the several states had ratified the amendment it would become law. This constitutional privilege, she pointed out, had never been exercised by the people but nevertheless existed and now for the first time there seemed a likelihood it would be used. The speaker said 10,000 signatures on the Townsend petition had already been secured in the city of Long Beach.

She told of the doctor's arrival in Chicago at the time J. W. Brinton and other Townsend officials resigned in a body; and how when the doctor learned that the Townsend organization treasury had been depleted until only $50 was left; and that $15,000 of unpaid indebtedness was standing against the Townsend Weekly and Townsend Plan, Incorporated, that he sat down and cried like a baby. But she pointed out how that in five months he has now succeeded in paying in full all of such indebtedness and that the organization now has a substantial sum in its treasury and that the Townsend Weekly now is issued with regularity. "All this," she said, "had been done by this poor business manager (according to welfare group) for you and me."

Giving emphasis to her confidence in the fitness of Dr. Townsend for the national leadership, she said, "When the American people were crying for some way out of the depression God anointed by giving the inspiration of the Townsend plan to the doctor." She pointed out that there was only one founder of the plan and said the claim by R. E. Clements to being a co-founder was false. She also turned her accusations of having betrayed the Townsend movement upon other former Townsend leaders and in this connection said, "I understand you have one here in this district whom you folks have already decided to have pack his grips when he leaves congress to come back to Yucalpa to count apples."

She laid the lash of criticism unsparingly on Arthur L. Johnson and denied that he was the author of the Townsend bill, also known as H. R. 4199. The facts of the matter were, she said, that he was only used to place the bill in legal phraseology but that the real author of it was Dr. Townsend and others closely associated with him. She said the General Welfare group have nothing to offer the public except the principles of the Townsend plan and that there is no just reason or need for their organization. She was heartily applauded during and at the close of her address.

Baxter and Young Here Thursday

Drama with a twinkle in its eye and a catch in its heart for every wife whose husband works with other women; for every husband whose wife wonders about his absence, for every girl whose boss is handsome — and married — is found in "Wife, Doctor and Nurse" starring Loretta Young, Warner Baxter and Virginia Bruce which comes to Walker's theater next Thursday. The companion feature on the week-end program will be "Wild Money," featuring Edward Everett Horton and a fine list of comedians.

With Loretta Young in the role of the wife, Warner Baxter as the outstanding New York surgeon, and Virginia Bruce as his head nurse and indispensable aide, "Wife, Doctor and Nurse" moves along at a rapid pace.

The cast of "Wild Money" is headed by Edward Everett Horton and includes Lynne Overman, Porter Hall, Lucien Littlefield, Benny Baker and Louise Campbell. "Wild Money" is the story of a penny-splitting auditor, who goes wild when he is suddenly given unlimited funds with which to "sew up" an important newspaper story.

Four song hits, including "Love Will Tell," "You Turned the Tables on Me," "Sing, Baby, Sing" and "When Did You Leave Heaven?" are featured in "Sing, Baby, Sing." With Warner Baxter starred in the leading role, "The Prisoner of Shark Island" tells the story of Dr. Samuel Alexander Mudd, Maryland physician, who was trapped with Lincoln's murderers, and who spent years in a living hell for a crime he had never committed.

The story of "The Prisoner of Shark Island" was adapted from the true historical account by Nunnally Johnson. Gloria Stuart, Arthur Byron, O. P. Heggie and Claude Gillingwater are seen in the principal supporting roles.

A rip-roaring musical romance set against the background of the exciting oil boom days of Pennsylvania, "High, Wide and Handsome," starring Irene Dunne, will open at the West Coast theater next Wednesday, it was announced today by Manager George King. "High, Wide and Handsome" was inspired by the stirring story of the 1860's when farmers struggled to cast off the exploiting railroad magnates who wanted the profits of the new oil industry. The cast includes Randolph Scott, Akim Tamiroff, Raymond Walburn, Elizabeth Patterson, Ben Blue, William Frawley, Charles Bickford, Irving Pichel and Lucien Littlefield.

The second feature will be "There Goes the Groom," with Ann Sothern, Burgess Meredith, Mary Boland, Onslow Stevens and other favorites.

On the same program are selected short subjects including "Our Gang Follies," an Old Gang comedy; a Popeye cartoon, "Hospitality"; a newsreel and a chapter of the serial, "Secret Agent X-9."

Recent Bride Honored At Shower

Another in the series of simple but exceedingly charming affairs which have complimented Mrs. J. D. Parker (Theola Ridgway) since the announcement of her marriage a week ago, was that given last evening by Mrs. Walter Hiskey and Mrs. Don Crumley.

Autumn shades characterized the lovely chrysanthemums set throughout the Hiskey home on South McClay street. Centering each small table, where a two course supper was served, were low bowls of tiny pastel mums with maidenhair fern.

Bridge furnished the diversion of the evening with bubble bowls in pottery and crystal being given as prizes to Mrs. Gordon Evenson, Mrs. Charles Crumley, and Mrs. W. I. Ridgway.

Guests drew for an award, with Mrs. Joyce Wolverton of Montana, who is visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wolverton, the winner. Two huge boxes were presented to the recent bride, each filled with pieces of pottery in apricot and delphinium blue colors. As she unwrapped the pieces, she found a complete set for eight.

Guests at the affair were Mrs. W. I. Ridgway, Mrs. Auburn, Mrs. Bert Auburn of Balboa, Mrs. Fred Parsons, Mrs. Nellis Young, Mrs. Theo Houghtaling, Mrs. Theo Lacy, Miss Pauline Parsons, Miss Marion Parsons, Mrs. Alec Jamieson, Mrs. Merle Wolverton, Mrs. Gordon Evenson, Mrs. Charles Crumley, Mrs. Marion Johnson of Laguna Beach, Mrs. Russell Goetting, Mrs. Lloyd Kneeland, Mrs. Vivian Harmon of Anaheim, Mrs. Jack Casey, Mrs. Dorothy Nielson, and Mrs. Joyce Wolverton, and the honor guest, Mrs. Parsons.

HOLIDAY MASQUE ENJOYED BY YOUNG PEOPLE

All the merriment of holiday time was experienced by a gay group of sub-debs who gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boardman one evening this week as guests of Miss Marjorie Boardman and Miss Betty June Boardman.

The house had been transformed into a Halloween setting, with a "witches' den" in the cellar being principal scene of revelry. Here bobbing for apples and all the traditional games and contests were enjoyed with a background of skeletons, scare-crows, dozens of jack o' lanterns, bats and witches.

After a merry treasure hunt at which Miss Frances Nall emerged victorious, the young people were served holiday refreshments in a sheet-draped dining room, where still more of the jack o' lanterns and Halloween decorations gave color to the scene.

Present were Frances Becker, Frances Nall, Norma Doss, Earl Harmon, Richard Adams, Betty Lou Coleman, Janet McPadden, Betty Jones and Pauline Keich.

CLUB SECTIONS HAVE MEETINGS

Two enjoyable section meetings of the Santa Ana Woman's club were held late this week. Mrs. L. G. Holman was hostess to the Garden group at her home, at which Mrs. R. A. McMahon gave an interesting paper on dahlias, and Mrs. Richard Pagett discussed the growing of begonias and roses.

The Ways and Means section enjoyed a party at the home of Mrs. Louis McCowan, 2233 Bush street, with Mrs. Emma Sherman and Mrs. L. V. Brown as co-hostesses.

After luncheon bridge was played, with first and second prizes going to Mrs. C. W. Clarke and Mrs. Dora Warner. Present for the affair were the Mesdames E. A. Elwell, A. C. Keck, Jennie Stone, Nannie Myers, R. N. Wimbush, George L. Wright, Mae Matthews, Minta Knoche, L. R. Musick, and E. R. Lepper.

Guests Enjoy Delightful Luncheon

Repeating the charm of a luncheon party given earlier in the month and promising equal pleasantness in the several others she had planned for the winter season, Mrs. Harvey Gardner was hostess to eight tables of bridge yesterday afternoon.

Guests gathered first at Daniger's, where they were seated for luncheon at a long table beautifully decorated in an autumnal motif, with rust and bronze-toned layers offset by shaded clusters of pompon chrysanthemums. The same glowing harvest hues were seen in the lovely garden blossoms that decorated the Gardner home where contract was later enjoyed. Helping to furnish this additional flower-beauty were Mrs. Arthur Trawick, Mrs. J. L. Bascom and Mrs. Ellis Wagner.

When the dainty little Halloween tallies were computed, Mrs. Gardner presented intriguing prizes, wrapped in attractive brown and gold paper and ribbons that still further carried out the motif of the party, to Mrs. Lyle Anderson, Mrs. John Backus and Mrs. Joe Daniger. Mrs. George Parker won a lucky prize.

Assisting Mrs. Gardner in her hostess duties was Mrs. Fred Merker. Others on the guest list were Mrs. Lyle Anderson, Mrs. Frank Andrews, Mrs. John Backus, Mrs. John Ball, Mrs. John Cannon, Mrs. Joe Daniger, Mrs. Don Darnell, Mrs. Robert Deinger of Torrance, Mrs. L. A. Dickey, Mrs. Carl Edgar, Mrs. Frederick Elliott.

Mrs. Armand Faccou, Mrs. Roscoe Hewitt, Mrs. C. P. England of Hollywood, Mrs. Clyde Jenkins of Los Angeles, Mrs. Don Hilyard, Mrs. E. T. McFadden, Mrs. Fred Merker, Mrs. Bruce Monroe, Mrs. Hubert Nall, Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. George Parker, Mrs. William Penn, Mrs. Paul Ragan, Mrs. Claude Sleeper, Mrs. Arthur Trawick, Mrs. Ellis Wagner, Mrs. Henry Williams, Mrs. Harvey Spears, Mrs. Homer Chaney, Mrs. Ray Adkinson, and Miss Louise Tubbs.

EIGHTSOME IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth of North Broadway was hostess this week to her dessert bridge club, and since it is a reciprocal group, high score awards fell to Mrs. C. V. Davis and the hostess.

Present were Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Parke Roper, Mrs. Addie Collins, Mrs. M. A. Yarnell, Mrs. Rowland Yeagle, Mrs. L. A. Collier, and Mrs. L. A. West.

CHAT AWHILE with BETTY

Thanks To E. V. D. My column this week won't include a poem. It's in the pocket of my other dress I left at home. When so many other columnists are poetically gifted. It's amazing that their efforts aren't more frequently lifted.

"Chat Awhile" will necessarily be brief this week on account of all the society doings that must make this illustrious page. Cast your eyes about and marvel at the indefatigability and ingenuity (fifty cents please) of our local hostesses. It took an extra quart of midnight oil to get it all transcribed to the printed word, but the impressiveness is worth it. All.

A letter from Mrs. D. K. Hamand notes that she and Betty spent a week in London, two weeks in Paris, and thence to Geneva where Betty is now enrolled in school. Mrs. H. is staying there awhile, studying French and living in a little pension where naught but that language is spoken.

Most fortuitous happening of the week: Florence and Crawford Nalle and Helen and Don Plumb trekked the weary miles into Los Angeles to attend Al Jolson's broadcast. Like many others, they found that sponsors generally give out twice as many passes as there are seats, and they couldn't even get in. As they made their way dejectedly out, the girls were a trifle startled to see Don rush up and start pumping the hand of the handsomely uniformed doorman! Dismay gave way to delight when it transpired that the doorman and Don had been classmates at college—and that because of the dear old alma mater, he'd help them out. He ushered them into a broadcasting room where Eddie Cantor was having his audition program—and they got in on the whole extra-special show the only ones present other than officials!

Most embarrassing incident of the week, on the other hand, was at Pan Hellenic's very nice meeting of some sixty Greek-letter university graduates. A foursome of self-styled wine dining in another corner of the smart restaurant where the meeting was called insisted on cat-calling during the brief and quiet business meeting that had to be conducted.

Self-possessed Juanita Fletcher consequently felt no qualms when she calmly rose and pointedly asked for an adjournment until the "annoying extraneous matter" had been disposed of. The quartet ultimately fled out in bravado, although they had the grace to look somewhat sheepish.

Caught a glimpse of a very attractive young matron who was designated as a Mrs. Charlton—she wore a hat trimmed in dubonnet and green that was most intriguing.

Speaking of hats—who was the stylish wearer of a daria-loaded chapeau at a flower-arrangement lecture Thursday evening? Very unusual, and nice.

Have you, like many others, come in contact with all sorts of amusing names—or at least those that might be very pretty but had double meanings? To date my most unusual encounters with names, many of them simply heard of over the telephone, have included, as I say, m a n y rather charming ones, Autumn Shade, Dawn Hunting, Faire Virgin, Ernest Friend, Pearl E. Cross, Maurine Waters, Early Bird, Fern Hill—and so-what's in a name?

Am I wrong in seeing some fleeting resemblance in Kathleen Elston, wife of Allan Vaughn Elston, Santa Ana's foremost author—and Harriet Enderle, charming big-brown-eyed talented dramatic reader?

Pretty Doris White had her equally charming mother-in-law, Mrs. E. D. White, really excited about the great surprise that Doris and Emrys Jr. wrote her they had for her upon her return from Montana. Three pages of enthusiastic adjectives had her prepared for something a great deal more chubby and human than the grand piano that is now the pride and joy of the young Whites. An interesting thing I learned—often having wondered as to how grand pianos were got through doorways. It seems that they are not even put together until in the living-room that is to be their setting.

Some of our industrious matrons, not content with their many social and domestic activities, are assiduously learning to be poets. They take regular classes at the junior college, and no matter what their ability or experience they are all now making chaeste and slim madonnas. Mrs. Burr Wellington is planning all her Christmas presents the modeled line, and Lynna West has her statue virtually completed, as does Marie Timmons.

Belles Of Winter Balls

Miss Reva Hawkins, on the left, is marshalling the resources of Pan Hellenic society in preparation for the Christmas dance that is that group's annual charity affair. It is to be held Dec. 27 at the Santa Ana Legion hall. On the right is Mrs. Hubert Gohres, capable young Junior Ebelle, who is preparing for the most successful fall dance in that organization's history, to be held Nov. 27.

Mrs. Selway Is Party Hostess

A delightful courtesy was paid Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Jr., yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Francis Selway entertained at a little luncheon party in her honor.

An eightsome enjoyed lunch at Daniger's with an attractive table centered by miniature babies and tall tapers, with tiny baby baskets to mark each cover. Later the group went to the Selway home where the honor guest opened many lovely gifts, and where contract occupied the remainder of the afternoon. Lovely flowers had been sent Mrs. Selway by Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth's aunt, Miss Mary Thompson of Garden Grove.

First and second prizes went to Mrs. Don Harwood and Miss Helen Houck of Anaheim. Mrs. Clyde Hill, Jr., was suitably consoled. Guests of Mrs. Selway were Mrs. Farnsworth, Mrs. Bud Burns of Balboa, Mrs. Clyde Hill, Jr., Mrs. Worth Babbitt, Mrs. Gail Jordan, and Miss Helen Houck.

YOUNGSTERS HAVE HOLIDAY PARTY

Vernon. To please her smaller sisters, Mary and Peggy, little Wynclaire Maylen and Charlene Rummel were added to the list of older youngsters, and had a special refreshment table by themselves.

All sorts of games and contests were enjoyed with Betty Cummings and Joyce Allen winning prizes. Wynclaire Maylen won an award for the most appropriate costume, and Miss Mardene Barclay delighted the group with a clever tap dance.

THIRTEEN COUPLES AT INFORMAL PARTY

Informality was the keynote Thursday evening when Miss Henrietta Rurup entertained a large group of friends at Halloween party held in the garage of her home, 2507 West Chapman street, Orange. Festoons of black and orange paper, Halloween favors and noisemakers, and a single jack-o-lantern carried out the motif.

Dancing, bobbing for apples, and informal games occupied the evening, which concluded with the serving of typical Halloween refreshments. Assisting Miss Rurup were Miss Melva Thorpe, Miss Edna Wilson, and Mrs. Lynn Chamberlain.

Thirteen couples were present during the evening, including Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Al Markel, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwarm, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Chamberlain (Dorothy Morthland), Miss Frances Crowther, Miss Margaret Blackwood, Miss Melva Thorpe, Miss Marguerite Denni, Miss Henrietta Rurup, Miss Edna Wilson, Miss Ernestine Erwin, Miss Jane White, Tom Sawyer, Wayne Crowther, Wayne Whitte, Howard Rash, Richard Wright, Frank Orr, Jud' Palmer, Robert McFarren.

GAY PARTY CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Today was a happy one for Billy Menton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Menton, because it was a gala time celebrating his tenth birthday anniversary. A long table at the Charcoal Broiler had been beautifully decorated by Mrs. Menton in the Halloween motif, with candies, favors, and flowers all in gold and black.

Guests all appeared in costume, and Mrs. Robert Lee Tedford assisted in receiving them. After lunch the group was escorted to the movies.

Present were Mary Elizabeth Carter of Oceanside, Carla Jo Mock, Novene Smith, Claire Hollingsworth, Mary Chase Woodward, Marjorie Raitt, Edna Lee Russell, Fleetwood Bell, Robert Hockaday, Jack Austin, Jimmie Sleeper, Allen George, John Davis, Frere Woodward, Tommy Hall, Harold Segerstrom, William Anderson, and Stuart Hollingsworth. Dinner guests this evening of the Menton family were Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodward and Frere and Mary Chase of Laguna Beach.

Couple Feted In Lovely Home

With added gaiety lent by the informality of the affair, a group of friends gathered en masse at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gold, 813 Louise street, one night this week to give them a surprise housewarming.

The group had been invited by Miss Marguerite Bridges of Los Angeles, house-guest of the Golds, who had devised clever invitations in the form of subpoenas. As yet the Golds are not completely settled in the spacious modern home, but the arrival of their friends was accompanied by many lovely gifts that will do their part to make the home even more beautiful.

Many amusing games were played during the evening, before the serving of a delicious refreshment course. Invited guests included the Mesdames and Mesdames Clyde Ashen, S. C. Russell, Beryl Van Benthussen, Bob Welsh, Frederick Sanford, F. N. Edmunds, Joe E. Harless, Harry Crow, Earl L. Vite, Ed N. Pierce, Ed O. Colbeck, Van L. Dinner Series Launched By The Millers Giving the first of a series of formal dinner parties that will continue into November, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller entertained last evening in their charming new home on Heliotrope drive.

The moderne off-white tones that characterize the lovely house were enhanced by the formal arrangements of white chrysanthemums and white tapers that decorated dining-room and living-room, and centered the one large table and several smaller ones where dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were assisted in welcoming guests by their daughter, Miss Fatsy Miller.

At the conclusion of an evening of contract, Mrs. L. G. Swales and Mrs. Will Flood of Pasadena won high score prizes for ladies, while gentlemen's awards went to B. J. McMullen and Ray Chandler. MARILYN HAMIL HOSTESS AT GAY PARTY Dim lights, revealing witches, cats, black bats and skeletons provided an eerie background last evening when 20 little guests called at the J. C. Hamill home, 1901 North Main street, for a Halloween party given for little Miss Marilyn Hamill. Hostesses Mrs. Herbert Miller and Mrs. J. C. Hamill and Miss Maurie A. Hamill.

All the little girls, classmates of Marilyn in the sixth grade at Jefferson, joined in guessing how many of their little friends they could recognize in their bright costumes and funny masks. When they unmasked, the group enjoyed an indoor track meet with all sorts of amusing contests.

Quieter games followed this and after prizes were awarded for the stunts, the girls formed a line and marched around the house to a little nursery rhyme. Then they took their places around five attractively decorated card tables. Ice cream in the form of black cats and witches, jack-o-lantern cookies, sponge cake with orange frosting and orange juice was served.

A Halloween nut cup filled with candies was at each table and guests were allowed to draw favors from the pockets of Halloween goblins. A centerpiece of frilly horns was on each table. At the close of the refreshment course, a mystery game, riding a broomstick called to distribute fortunes in rhyme.

NOTED ACTOR TO APPEAR AT JUNIOR EBELL

Final plans will be made for the district convention of Juniors to which the Santa Ana club is to be hostess next Friday and Saturday. Members are urged to bring recipes to the general meeting.

SANTA ANA CHURCHES WELCOME YOU SERMONETTE

(ON THIS WEEK'S CHURCH SCHOOL LESSON)

By Glenn L. Thorne

Paul, in his letter to the Galatians (5:16-23), lists 15 manifestations of the flesh namely "Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings and the like." Of these, he says "they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God." Nor did Paul have to draw upon his imagination and create these forms. He came in daily contact with them even as we do today.

But it is interesting to note that while Paul lists 15 manifestations of the natural man, he enumerates but nine fruits of the spirit, which brings to mind the statement that there are more words in the dictionary denoting vices than there are denoting virtues. The fruits of the spirit which Paul lists are "love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance" of which he says "against such there is no law."

It might be well for one to examine himself occasionally to see the type and quantity of fruit he is bearing. For while the manifestations of the flesh are to be curbed, we can have just as much of the fruits of the spirit as we want without penalty.

Four times each year the various church schools consider some phase of the temperance problem. This week's is the moral issue involved. A dictionary definition of "moral" says "pertaining to actions with reference to right and wrong; conformed to right conduct."

There are many ideas of what the standard of right and wrong should be. There are many false standards, one of the most common of which is that of "personal liberty"—the philosophy of those who claim they have the right to do as they please—often irrespective as to how it may affect other individuals. They forget that in the highly civilized age in which we live it is hardly possible to live to one's self for our lives influence others.

When we think of the moral problem as connected with temperance our thoughts

"An automobile is a great machine; if it goes wrong, however, we can scrap it and get another. But not so with the human body. Such was the sign which I saw recently and it set me to thinking that proper educational methods through our schools, societies and churches, together with a changed heart, will become a fence at the top of the precipice, so that these same organizations and facts will not need to become an ambulance at the bottom."

first turn to the youth of our land. Boys and girls often still in their teens. And rightly we should for they are our citizens and leaders of tomorrow. They should be held in our minds ever with the thought of protecting them from dangers which they do not realize. We have a problem before us. Of this we all agree. What is the answer?

The following statement may shock two opposite classes of people: The temperance question was not settled by the prohibition amendment—nor by its repeal. The only true solution to the problem is a change of heart. Education and controlling laws may have good intentions and may be of some help, but after all is said and done, only a change of heart will effect a cure. That isore will prevent wrecked automobiles, wrecked lives, wrecked homes and families caused by the drink evil from becoming the flaunting sign of our civilization.

The death rate on our highways alone is assuming proportions of major military engagements with a drinking driver often a "murderer." This problem is so serious as to be a concern to the distillers themselves. They are asking adequate legislation to prevent this slaughter. Our penal institutions, court records, hospital records and police reports daily bring to our minds the fact that we still have a problem to face, that it has not been solved. Men, women and youth are still being run through the wringer, squeezed out of their money and often times relegated to the physical scrap heap.

Christianity is the only true solution to our problem, although we must not discount proper legislation and educational methods for they go hand in hand. We must concentrate our efforts on our boys and girls for as my father used to say "a converted man is like one person—but a converted boy is a whole multiplication table."

The story is told of a man past middle life who came to Dante Gabriel Rossetti bringing some drawings. He breath was strong with liquor. Rossetti saw that his drawings were hopeless and he told the man it was useless to try any more drawings. Then the man took from his pocket some more drawings and said "These are the work of a student." Rossetti at once recognized their worth and asked to have the lad sent to him. Then came the sad confession "I was that youth. Those were my drawings . . ."

Yes, youth should ever be before us in our thinking. This is the answer to those oldsters who are "moderate" imbibers. It is not their own "moderate" drinking which should cause so much concern as the fact that their influence might encourage some boy or girl to drink who might become a drunkard—and who would want to feel guilty of that?

R. H. Cowley, M.D., says that "In the strain of modern civilization with its alterations of depressions and elations, a man must either find a drug which will put his higher faculties . . . to sleep and make him feel like a king while he is still a pauper, feel brave while being reckless, feel smart while being silly, feel like a superman by paralyzing the little monitor which would tell him that he is acting like a fool—or, he must develop a philosophy of life which will enable him to rise above these depressing influences and conquer them. The Christian religion has proved the best philosophy."

After all, then, is not Christianity the true solution to this as well as all our problems?

"GO HOME AND BUY A SEWING MACHINE" ...

A short, poorly dressed and rather homely girl of about 15 stood before the director of Vienna's great Imperial Opera Company. She had just finished singing in an audition. Anxiously, hopefully, she awaited his comment. The director spoke. Ten Major Bowes' gongs ringing at the same time couldn't have been more crushing.

"Go home quick and ask your friends who helped you to come to Vienna to buy you instead a sewing machine, or learn to be a good dressmaker maybe, or something like that—but a singer—an opera singer! Ach, never!"

Even this remark wasn't enough to kill the aspirations held by the young girl. Well justified was her faith in herself. The girl was the future greatest contralto of her time—the late Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

Judge Stump

Dear Judge:

Ever know a used car owner who wouldn't brag at great length about the performance of his 1937 relic?

T. D. C.

Well, you could hardly expect a fellow to run down his own car. They only do that to pedestrians.

STUMP.

Hobo: "Lady, have you an organ that needs tuning?"

Lady: "How ridiculous! We have no organ in this house."

Hobo: "Then if I can't earn anything, how about giving me a bite to eat?"

Seeks Share in Bruneman Estate

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Patricia O'Neil Bruneman, divorced wife of George (Les) Bruneman, a slain gambler, seeks to share in his estate, which she values at more than $20,000.

Claiming Bruneman had not complied with Nevada residence requirements when he obtained a divorce in Las Vegas in June, 1936, and that she was still legally his widow, Mrs. Bruneman petitioned yesterday for letters of administration to his estate.

His mother, Mrs. May B. Bruneman of San Francisco, was the other legal heir, she contended.

A Vanished Fortune

One of the industrial miracles of our Pacific slope was the creation a few years ago of the city of Longview, Wash.

Longview, with a population almost identical with Anaheim's, was created on the Columbia river as a planned, co-ordinated community that grew almost overnight in some vacant delta meadowland to nearly its present stage of completeness, beauty and modernity. Its author and patron was R. A. Long, of Kansas City, head of the great Long-Bell Lumber Co.

In the intervening years, both Mr. and Mrs. Long have passed away. Today, the epic of Longview is recalled by an ironic sidelight furnished by the state treasurer of Missouri.

The news item relates that Mrs. Long left an estate of $2,376,000 with her husband as beneficiary. It all was invested in Long-Bell securities. Ravages of the depression and other elements caused this great fortune to shrink until it was appraised at $65,000, a sum insufficient to meet the federal and state inheritance taxes. Now, after eight years' litigation, an agreement between officials of the two governments has been reached for a division of the amount. The federal treasury has accepted $35,000, and a check for $30,551 has just been cleared by the Missouri treasurer to close the matter.

Illustrating once again the truth of the biblical reference on how moth and rust doth corrupt earthly treasure.

Tommy Manville seems determined to stick to the experimental method of matrimony if it takes the last dollar his dad left.

Self-Made Emperors

Uneasiest of all the crowned heads lies the self-crowned head.

Czar Josef, Kaiser Adolf and Benito Caesar are as restless as first-night ballet dancers.

Their antics indicate that they are about as comfortable as roaches on a hot stove.

A self-crowned monarch who has given himself such a tremendous build-up cannot even stop to think, but must rush from crisis to manufactured crisis, having the spotlight forever focussed on his own self-crowned head, admitting nothing, uttering omniscient and indisputable fiat, defying heaven and earth.

Fortunate we, the rest of the human herd, if these self-appointed lords and masters do not set the entire race to whirling, like dervishes on the edge of an abyss, and dash us to destruction.

There are signs abroad in the lands of these supermen who have usurped the counterfeit divine right of kings, that even their own groveling subjects are beginning to see through their tinsel and make-up.

When this vision becomes general there will be little time left for the self-made emperors.

The only way to settle this third-term Republican scoring slump is to let Hoover coach the line and London the backfield.

A Baby and Two Courts

The stork, it turns out, is no respecter either of doctors or of judges. And if you don't believe it, just read a decision fresh out of the Illinois supreme court.

The trouble began in an automobile accident in which a woman figured. Physicians testifying in her trial made the material point that injuries which she suffered would deny her future motherhood. As a result she was awarded $5000.

An appeal from the judgment was taken to the appellate court, and while this slow motion affair was in progress what should happen but the woman gave birth to a child!

In spite of the surprise appearance, the appellate court ruled that the baby was "new evidence" which the bench could not consider.

Now the supreme court has expressed itself as feeling likewise. It simply refuses judicially to recognize the presence of the baby. As a consequence of this remarkable technicality, the mother receives $5000 for being incapacitated for motherhood though she is, in fact, a mother. Thus the opinion of the "experts" outweighs the performances of nature.

The Russians had a California senator in jail and let him go. Always fumbling the ball.

Where Taxes Really Pinch

There has been plenty of complaint in this country about the height of the income tax rates and concerning such matters as the tax on corporations' undistributed surpluses.

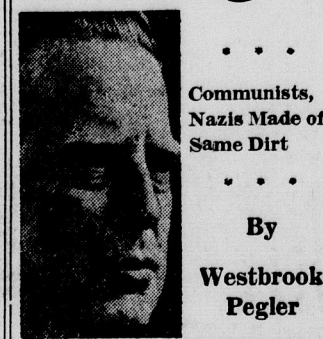

But can you imagine the howl which would arise if the U. S. A. enacted a decree like one just put in force by Mussolini? The Italians, of course, do not dare complain audibly.

Il Duce has just slapped down a 10 per cent levy on corporate capital. Last year, real estate owners were forced, in effect, to turn into the national treasury five per cent of the value of their holdings. Owners of government bonds also were obliged to accept reduced interest rates as a contribution to the empire. Now a general program of capital confiscation is forecast in Rome.

Already, of course, the Italians are paying (except in the highest brackets) income taxes as altitudinous as prevail generally in Europe, and indirect taxes that are said to be remarkably burdensome.

Think of living there and not being able to demonstrate!

FAIR Enough

Communists,
Nazis Made of Same Dirt

By

Westbrook
Pegler

All believers in democracy naturally loathe Mussolini, Hitler and all that they represent, but there should be a sort of Jim Crow rule to segregate Communists who would attempt to join us in this pleasure. They have special reasons for their hatred, quite different from those of people who believe in freedom. After all, the Communists were responsible for these horrors, and it isn't the atrocities which they deplore but the fact that they aren't in charge of the terror. They are sore because one set of tough guys in Italy and another set in Germany finally decided that they would rather die than submit to any more kicking around, and went into the streets to fight the bores according to their own rough-and-tumble rules. The record book shows that in each case the Communists took an awful shellacking.

But they had gone around asking for it, murdering innocent patriots, wrecking, mobbing, bombing, terrorizing and showing their muscle until a long-suffering Pope reached inside his gump for his can of spinach, cranked up the Sunday punch and let them have it square on the mutton.

CASTOR OIL COCKTAILS

"Mussolini's hoodlums crowded them with castor oil until it ran out their ears, sometimes in cocktail form, mixed with kerosene, and whether they took it neat or half-and-half, the results usually were fatal in a very dreadful and humiliating way. This method of execution or assassination, though unique and brutal, was no more final or painful, however, than some of the standard practices by which the Communists had wiped out nobody knows how many hundred thousand heretics in Russia and which they were using in their post-war missionary work among the Italians and the down-hearted Heines.

They were very cocky and took no back talk from the natives when they were out in front, and it was only when the home crowd came to play away and began to run them up alleys that they appreciated the horrors of the concentration camps and appealed to the sucker liberals of the world to witness what dirt was being done. But their own prisons were not country clubs, and if Fascists and Nazis carried things to bloody extremes, as nobody doubts they did and do, they have been no more savage than the Communists had been or would be in this country tomorrow if they held the dice.

They cut their initials in both countries, however, for when it came time to fight Fascists and Nazis adopted their methods and ethics and thus degraded themselves to the level which they had thought to escape. They abolished freedom of the press and thought and speech, and became bold, bland, cantankerous liars and don't-care-who-knows-nothing people a bit. I maintain that conditions just bring out the best in a person's true nature. When a picture actor gets a big break, and "goes Hollywood," you can bet your bottom dollar that the streak was always there but just never had a chance to show it before. It's the same way with any other characteristic. I had an uncle down home that got married when he was very poor and in later years he came into a lot of money. His wife thought that all this wealth had changed him toward her. She used to sit around and brood and finally he said "What in the world are you broodin' about?" and she says "Well, you're either gettin' lazy with your wealth or you don't love me like you used to when we was first married, because you use to help me with the dishes and you never do now."

He says, "Well, you're wrong on both counts. Remember in them old days we only had two dishes." (Copyright, 1937)

IT'S NOT SO, YES?

A Japanese correspondent and an American correspondent were leaning against one of Washington's better club bars, arguing. "Japan buys more American cotton than any other country in the world," said the former.

"And she also buys more scrap iron for scrap," replied his companion. "I hope we don't get any of it back."

"Yes," said the Japanese, who sometimes gets mixed up in his English, "I hope so, too, not because they are practically alike one healthy Democratic loathing will cover both."

I'll bet a lot of people are gonna give me an argument when I say I don't think conditions change people a bit. I maintain that conditions just bring out the best in a person's true nature. The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

SEC finds speculation by a small group sent stock prices too high; just before slump dividends of market leaders were as low as 1%; Wallace, scared by Tugwell's ghost, delayed RA movie for F.D.R. OK; La-Follette committee unearths secret California anti-union pact.

WASHINGTON.—If you want some sound perspective on the recent stock market slump, take a look at the actual earnings of a few bell-wether stocks. They show that dividends were a long way from justifying the high prices those stocks commanded before the drop.

Here are some of the stocks which led the market, their value at the market's high point, and finally their earnings computed on the amount paid in 1937 to date:

Stock	High	Yield
Anaconda Copper	$69 1/2	1.78%
Pennsylvania R. R.	50 1/4	.99%
Allied Chemical	258 1/2	2.32%
American Can	121	3.33%
Consolidated Edison	49 1/2	3%
General Electric	64 1/2	1.85%
DuPont	180 1/2	2.35%
Westinghouse	168 1/2	1.70%

In other words, prices had been hiked beyond the point of a profitable return. Securities and exchange commission experts, making a study of the situation, conclude that despite the existence of their commission, speculation was the chief cause of the price-hike. Furthermore, using the 1929 figure of only 369,000 margin accounts, as a basis for comparison, this speculation was promoted by a relatively small group of people.

IRONPANTS JOHNSON
Though one of the New Deal's most vigorous and consistent critics today is General Hugh (Ironpants) Johnson, the books of the Democratic National Committee, just filed with the clerk of the house, show a disbursement of $80.70 to the general "for traveling expenses incurred on trip to Newark, N. J., March 4, 1937."

TUGWELL GHOST
Although an "ex" for many months, Braintrust Rex Tugwell's spectral presence still haunts the capitol, sometimes scaring some New Dealers out of a year's growth.

Latest to get the jitters is Secretary Henry Wallace. Cause of the farm chief's agitation is a Re-Settlement Administration movie that Tugwell started before he left to become a molasses magnate. The picture, similar to the very successful Plow that Broke the Plains, deals with floods and soil erosion and is taken on the Mississippi river. Its title is "The River."

The film was ready for public showing Aug. 1, but when Wallace saw it he went into a cold sweat. Artistically the picture is even more successful than "The Plow." Some of the shots of last spring's floods are breath-taking. But, deeply afflicted with presidentialitis, Wallace was afraid the movie would stir up a rumormongering that might hurt his chances.

For one thing, it was made with relief funds, and Wallace feared the charge that the government was encroaching on the moving picture industry. Also, the picture inferentially takes a slap at the South. So he refused to release it until the President had given his okay. If there was going to be

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent, fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

FARLEY AIRFLOW

To the Editor:
We thought Mr. Roosevelt wrecked his "Farley Airflow" when he ran it into a crowd of anti-court packers a few weeks ago. But he assured us in his last fireside chat that he has the old bus repaired, all tuned up, full of New Deal gas and is ready to put her down the road of controversy at high speed regardless of the bumps. And now the Airflow takes a tour into our own Southern California to show its running qualities.

What's the hurry with this subjugation of American economy if "Happy Days Are Here Again?" Surely he can't take such "thank-you-marms" as the Black appointee, crop control, government reorganization and wages and hours in high gear. Also, he is liable to run down several "enemies of democracy."

If he persists in his reckless driving, he may have his driver's license revoked in 1940 and there will be no third term. And will we miss those fireside chats!

What Other Editors Say

AND SO, VITTORIO!

(The Nation)

Mussolini knew that his son would be received coldly in New York, but no one expected the frigid reception he got in Hollywood.

The Anti-Nazi league published a notice in the trade papers reminding the film colony that this was the young man who had asked for and received the privilege of being the first fascist aviator to bomb helpless Ethiopians. His book, "Wings Over Ambe," began to be talked about as the fictionalized autobiography in which he had called war "the most beautiful and complete of all sports" and in which he had confessed that he liked bombing because as a child he had been denied the sight of fire.

Hal Roach gave a party for him, but those invited saw panic when they saw their names on the guest list, which, in the Hollywood mood of the time, quickly became a black list.

Variety reports that plans were made to publish a full page advertisement of protest against the visit, to contain the names of a hundred stars, but in a single day the list grew too large to be printed. The Hollywood actors were indignant and the moguls of the industry were jittery. They had, says our trusted Variety, enough labor troubles "without having to explain that a young fascist's visit had no more significance than a clown's Huxley."

But they had other reasons to be jittery. Mussolini had been very erratic in dealing with the products of the Hollywood studios, and had forbidden or withdrawn the showing of such pictures as "Beloved Enemy," "Woman Chases Man," "Modern Times," and "The General Dies at Dawn." He had gone back on an arrangement made with Will Hays for a certain quota of American pictures. But worst of all, he was now trying to fight his way into the lucrative South American market. For South America means a good deal to him. Fascism has made considerable progress in those countries.

Commerce has grown, munitions have been sent, military missions have been exchanged. What has been lacking is a good propaganda medium like the movies. It was for the purpose of mastering that medium that Vittorio paid us the honor of a visit. To be sure, he had to content himself with a relatively unimportant mentor like Hal Roach.

But he had hopes for something bigger—President Roosevelt's Chicago address attacking the dictators resulted in an urgent call from Italy for Vittorio's return. Plans for a career as movie producer must now be postponed, and Vittorio may meanwhile have a chance to experience again his sensations as a bomber in his father's army in Spain.

Howdy, folks! Tomorrow is the day when middle-aged men will be boasting of the Halloween on which they hoisted Farmer Hodgkin's buggy to the top of his barn.

In the old days, boys used to hoist buggies to the tops of barns. Nowadays, no doubt, the elevator auto-trailers to the roofs of garages.

Once upon a time there was a chief of police who never issued the statement "Boys who wish to celebrate Halloween must be orderly and well-behaved. Acts of vandalism will not be tolerated."

McINTYRE

NEW YORK.—Another editor out of Kansas threatens to rival in popularity the famous William Allen White masterpiece: "What the matter with Kansas?" Well, before his passing a few months ago, R. E. Josh Wilson, editor of the Wichita Beacon, penned the now famous: "What I Die."

Complish: When I die I shall accomplish in the millionth of a twinkling of an eye that which science through the ages has been unable to achieve. I shall have learned the secrets of the universe; I shall have probed the farthest star of the universe; I shall have probed the infinite.

Knowledge of the infinite will be mine when I die. While I live, I shall gather round me, perhaps as an instant in time, the heads of many mansions; I shall have seen the sun on dark night; I shall have contemplated the stars; and beyond those are countless more.

On Asterion may my spirit rest, or I may pass through gates of pearl into a home of golden dighares on a star the light of which has not yet reached this world wherein I have had my being. Or I may choose a planet of eternal residence, that its seas may be observed by those I love below.

When I die, though no shadow blind me, there will continue ties of love which endure while the heart no longer throbs, while blood no more to course through arteries that withered as I neared, the soul to soar in less flight. Thus I shall be detached from things memory, again pass as an instant in time, as glass within the walls. I may view the dissolution of space, the dissolution of the earth, the dissolution of those whom I left behind, and I shall be ecstatic for their good; I shall have sweetened my everlasting peace, their remembrance, a trivial moment before the great who determines destinies.

When I die I shall know those who loved me, I shall be on earth, with common exalted works placed on the throne on high. They have gone to dust to rest, I will pass before me and I shall know them all, for I shall remain as individuals yet that as one, even as the sea is the semblance of drops of water, together through nature's power.

Should my grievous world faults consign me to a barren earth-bound soul until penance has been done, I shall be satisfied as I proceed through lower planes. I shall have no flesh body and my mind will prove serene in the knowledge that I have achieved atonement, and I shall be admitted to eternal joys. I will suffer no hunger or thirst nor will I endure distress for lack of sleep, as I pass over extensive distances on the wings of night unhindered by the elements.

I may look in upon a quiet side where sit those who were my friends. I may seek them though they are beyond oceans, widely scattered. I may contemplate them in their andyevs, though one is in London, a city in antiquated England, a place which will mean nothing as continue earth bound in exiation. I shall enjoy earthly contacts, yet be among the immortals.

Should it be that there is naught beyond the grave, still shall have been given me the greatest boons that humankind desires.

What sweeter blessing do we than dreamless sleep? That shall be mine, should it be that the earth should fall from its casement of flesh and bone it no more. I shall then be beyond the sufferings of vitality, no uncertainties awaiting me in a celestial void. Priceless sleep!

Why fear to die?

Note: Mr. Wilson was one of the quiet contemplators of existence so often found writing anonymously for the editorial pages. Although not conscious of the great change so many thinkers now call translation, he was in the shadow of death, when one day at his desk he was suddenly inspired to write this epic so different from his usual vein. It was only a short while later that he rather prophetically and quite fearlessly gave the experience the late Charles Frohman on a sinking ship called "life's greatest adventure." (Copyright, 1937)

NAMING THE BABY

"What are you calling your new baby, Mrs. Smith?"

"Oh, we thought we'd give him a Biblical name. We called him 'Arald.'"

"Harold? But I thought you said you gave him a Biblical name?"

"We did: 'Arald, the 'Arald angels sing.'"

She—How would you like to take part in another war?

He—This is so sudden!
